EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

The Legislature talks of adjourning on the 6th of June.

The entire income of Gen. Grant is said to be $9,000 a year.

Sarah Bernhardt is now on the eleventh volumn of her memoirs.

Secretary Teller and Senator Hill, both of Colorado, are quarreling.

The City Council of Burlington, Iowa, has refused to reduce the saloon license from $400 to $200.

Cincinnati and Pittsburg have been having more or less successful dramatic and musical festivals this week.

A Nevada Indian has just been awarded $15,000 damages from the Southern Pacific Railroad for the loss of a foot.

The tanning of human skins seems to be an industry peculiar to Massachusetts, and carried on to a considerable extent.

The collector of Internal Revenue at Richmond, Va., on Wednesday sold $165,000 worth of tobacco, cigar and cigarette stamps.

An Indiana correspondent says that the Republicans in that State were never in better fighting trim than at the present time.

The only way the Courts can disannul the will of the people in regard to the liquor laws is to declare such laws unconstitutional: "Jury fixing" is unpopular, you know.

Senator Logan, we are assured, will spend the summer in New Mexico. In that event he will have a warm time, as it is about as hot a place as is to be found within our dominions.

The new Democratic Governor of Georgia elected at a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alexander Stephens was a Confederate soldier and hence much of his popularity.

Ex-President Hayes has subscribed one-fourth of the cost of the proposed Methodist Episcopal church at Fremont, Ohio, and offers to carry the entire debt for five years without interest.

The silence of O'Donovan Rossa since the Philadelphia Convention is among the most eloquent deliverances of the season. If he continues in the strain, people may come to think he isn't such a colossal ass after all.

Pittsburg has had such a bitter experience within a very recent period with strikes, that one would think both sides would shrink from such a struggle. It certainly ought not to be precipitated on a stupendous scale until every other effort at a peaceable settlement of the differences between labor and capital are exhausted.

The man in Philadelphia who tied together and rendered useless the telephone and telegraph wires which had been strung across the roof of his house without his consent was acquitted of the charge of malicious mischief and has sued the company for the prosecution. Whether he makes anything by his motion or not he has taught such companies the limits to their power and aggrieved citizens the extent of their rights.

The fact that the Governor has vetoed the bill to grant a pension to the mother of a soldier disabled in the riots of 1877, does not speak very well for his patriotism. It is difficult to understand why a soldier thus disabled is not entitled to the same consideration as one disabled in the preservation of the Government. But perhaps the Governor is in accord with his party and does not believe in granting pensions to soldiers at all.

Spring Strikes.

April, May and June, says the Philadelphia Press, have brought strikes as regularly as warm weather for years past. The doubt under which trade now rests, in spite of much that is reassuring, unquestionably adds to the apprehension with which current strikes are regarded, although, as a matter of fact, they are much less serious than a year ago. Each of the three classes of strikes now in progress arises from some special reason apart from the general condition of trade, and does not spring, as the strikes of 1882 or 1877, from a serious disorganization of labor or a sudden advance in the price of food. With over production in almost every manufacture, it is generally understood that this is not a striking year, and few demands for higher wages have been successful where they were made of factory employers.

Omitting strikes in single mills and the lesser trades, which occur on no general plan, and are rarely on a large scale, the three trades which are furnishing the greater portion of the strikes in progress are the building trades, the tobacco makers and the coal miners. The strike of the beamers and other operatives of the Kensington mills has collapsed as completely, if after a shorter struggle, as the strike in Cohoes last July and August, which cost $270,000, or in Lawrence two months earlier. Except in favored manufactures, there has been no time for nearly two years past when a strike could be successfully made by textile operatives. The coal miners' strike is a short cut to a reduced output, whose chief cost will fall on the men, instead of on the coal pit owners. A hard Winter in the East and Northwest and the large demand in consequence for coal in domestic consumption, as well as by mills which were cut off from their water power by last Fall's drought in New England, has absorbed an output of coal from 10 to 15 per cent larger than last year. There is no reason whatever to suppose that this increased consumption will continue, and every ground to believe that the total demand this year will be less than last. For one thing, and no small one in the use of coal, the iron furnaces now in blast are in number about the same as at the close of 1879 and the beginning of 1880. The current consumption of coal, and coal cannot be profitably produced any faster than it is used, is now nearly one-third larger than it was three years ago. In Ohio the output last year was 9,450,000 tons, against 7,000,000 in 1880, and the advance in this State is proportionately as large. An increase on this scale, with one large factor of consumption standing where it did three years ago, points directly to over-production, and any attempt to increase wages is tolerably sure to fail. The strike which has emptied so many pits in the Western end of this State will probably continue until the demand overtakes the supply and work will be resumed at the old basis.

The cigar and tobacco makers' strikes, which run over the country this week from the Atlantic to the Mississippi, rest on a different basis. They are practically a struggle between the employers and the operators over the increased profit resulting from the decrease of taxation. Here, as elsewhere, many employers have conceded the demands of the workmen, and, considering that the manufacturers were in general opposed to the reduction in the tax on the ground that their profits were satisfactory under it, this division of the advantages of a decrease of taxation can scarcely be considered unfair. The advance in wages will do something to lessen the fall in price due to the remission of a burdensome impost; but it is a good deal better that the sum heretofore collected as a tax should increase the earnings of labor than that it should continue to swell the Federal revenues.

The building trades have furnished the heaviest strikes this spring, and those most seriously affecting large operations. The bricklayers' strike has lasted over a month and has cost nearly a quarter of a million dollars. The plasterers are on strike now in Pittsburg. The threatened strike of the painters has been adjusted after mutual concessions. Strikes elsewhere have fared in various ways; but in general the men have carried their point. Building, after two years of great activity, has reached a point where strikes are almost inevitable. When building began again in the large cities two or three years ago, after a prolonged depression, wages were very low. They slowly advanced with the increase of building, and, now that the turn of the tide has come, while the men are as anxious as ever to continue the advance in wages, the employes are neither forced by the pressure of their contracts nor led by the condition of trade to an immediate compliance. Strikes follow and as the building boom is far from exhausted, they usually succeed.

Widespread as these vaious demands for higher wages are, they by no means equal the bitter struggles of last year, when dear food led the strikes in establishments like Cooper & Hewitt's glue factory and Steinway's piano works, which had run through the worst depression after 1873 without trouble. The strikes in Lawrence and Cohoes, each sixty days long, the hard fight in the Cumberland coal region, the struggle over the iron-making scale, which kept 100,000 men out of work from June to September, and the 6 weeks' strike of the freight handlers in New York, dislocating all transit trade for days, were each worse than any strike, except the coal miners', now in progress, in its effect on industry.

Jury Justice.

We do not endorse the following remarks of the Harrisburg Telegraph—indeed, we have a higher opinion of the jury system than that journal seems to entertain. We consider it one of the great bulwarks of our liberties. Yet we admit that it is sometimes distorted into anything but justice and made to serve an evil purpose. The Telegraph remarks that there is apparently a very wide feeling of distrust of juries in trials of cases of great importance. This feeling of distrust has always been felt, more or less, in a certain way, and at times when public attention has been centered upon trials of great interest or importance. It is a remarkable fact that nearly all great jury trials are very unsatisfactory to the public sense of justice. Public opinion invariably runs counter to the proceedings or verdict, and the prevailing sentiment is that justice has miscarried, if the whole thing has not been a stupendous farce. The results in the Molly Maguire trials may be cited perhaps as exceptions, but they were of a local character and attracted great attention chiefly from the number of convictions, rather than from any element upon which public sentiment could divide.

The London Times, in a recent article upon this subject, strongly favors trials by judge instead of jury. The article can hardly be inspired by the failure of the Dublin juries as tools of the British Government, as one would think from such an article appearing in the Thunderer, for these verdicts are of the very character complained of in the name of justice. The result in the Guiteau case might not have been different, if the assassin had been tried before three judges, but it would have been more speedily reached and the perfectly legitimate ground for fault-finding would have been removed. Criminals like Stokes and Dukes escape by manipulating juries. The evil of disagreement and prolonged agony and expense, as illustrated by the Star Route trials, could not occur except under the jury system.

A Churchly Innovation.

The following dispatch conveys information which may be of interest to both our Methodist and Episcopalian readers:

Baltimore, Md., April 29.—There is considerable talk in Methodist church circles of this city over a new departure made by Mt. Vernon Church, the most fashionable and wealthiest Methodist congregation of Baltimore. This is the church of which Rev. Thomas Guard was pastor at the time of his death. Rev. Dr. Felton, formerly of St. Louis, is his successor, and he has led the new movement, which has resulted in the introduction of a ritual somewhat on the Episcopalian order. This ritual was used for the first time at the service to-day, and little else was talked about by the congregation. It includes the chant of the Gloria Patria, Psalter and the recital by the congregation of the Apostles' Creed.

Although printed cards were placed in the pews giving the order of service, yet there were some slight hitches, and at one point the pastor was obliged to ask the congregation to rise to continue the service. Dr. Felton spoke of the objection to the ritual which had been made by some, and said that if, after a fair trial, it did not prove satisfactory, it would be discarded. It has been unanimously adopted by the board of trustees of the church but some of the members object to it, while many of the old-time Methodists of other churches have protested against it as a step toward Episcopalianism. One of the Methodist Church papers here has condemned it in plain terms. The ritual, however, is authorized by the book of discipline, and it is used by several Methodist churches in other large cities.

Perhaps So (?)

The same court that authorized the granting of license is ready to inflict any penalties provided the case in trust is abused.—Democrat.

Perhaps so; we have heard the judges of the court, when off the bench, say the same thing. Cases have been brought before the court which resulted in the prosecutor, who endeavored to visit the penalties of the law on offenders, being compelled to pay all costs, while the offender, being held up as a prosecuted individual, was allowed to go free.

We have heard judges say that we have enough law on the liquor question, and the trouble is that it is never enforced. But in several instances where its enforcement has recently been attempted the courts have in a cowardly manner declared the law unconstitutional. There were recent instances of this sort in Iowa and also in Ohio. As a rule, we believe that it would be extremely hazardous to go before a Court to prosecute an offender of the liquor law when the same Court had showed itself so over-zealous in granting licenses. The same influence that was so potent in securing the license would secure immunity from punishment.

Money is one of the most powerful agencies in the world and liquor men understand the art of using it.

The Iowa State Register bitterly condemns the decision of the Iowa Supreme court declaring the prohibitory amendment null and void. It says: "In the entire history of this country no court ever announced such a decision before. The Supreme Court of Iowa is the first and only court in the history of the United States to declare invalid a constitutional amendment which had been adopted by the people and accepted by the political department of the government. The decision stands without a precedent and without authority. It is against the emphatic opinion of a long line of eminent statesmen of all parties and against the unbroken opinion of the United States Supreme Court, which has always held that a change in the Constitution is a political one which courts have no power to decide. It is a decision which attacks the declaration of the Constitution itself, that all political power is inherent in the people, and that they have the power at all times to change their form of government as they see fit. Instead it proclaims to the people of Iowa that they can change their form of government only by the will of the Supreme Court, and that the act of the people is null and void unless approved and ratified by the judges."

The new pardon board has granted only one pardon.

An exchange states: "The trustees of the fund of a million dollars which John F. Slater gave a year or two ago, for the education of the colored people of the South have just held a meeting in New York to lay out the work for the first year. It has been invested so that it will produce the sum of $50,000 a year. The policy has been adopted of giving assistance to existing institutions which are willing to undertake the work of training colored teachers. This is the part of wisdom and will produce much better results than would be possible by an effort to establish a separate institution in any given locality. The increase of facilities for education among the colored people must of necessity be slow. They can best be advanced by the careful training of acceptable teachers and not by the scattering of resources by attempts to do too much in the line of general education."

It was a long-ago matter of colloquial remark that "the Dutch have taken Holland," but that they should ever take the world—by surprise—and institute anything so progressive as an International Exhibition is a matter which, had it been mooted a decade since, would have been hooted down by cries of inextinguishable laughter. The sturdy Dutch burghers, however, will doubtless hold their own in the category of industrial shows, for they have the merit of being very sure if they are notably slow in all their undertakings. If there shall be as much breadth in the scope of the Amsterdam exposition as there is in the average Dutchman's nether garments, it will be expansive enough to meet all the requirements of the age we live in.

The New York Tribune divides the Democracy into Free Traders, the Protectionists and the Trimmers. The first named faction is headed by Mr. Watterson. It wants the party to nail the flag of a "tariff for revenue only" to the mast and go in for victory or death. Mr. Randall is the conceded leader of the second faction, the Protectionists. It knows that the country cannot be carried on a Free Trade platform, and it is not yet ready for death, so it is willing to compromise on a "tariff for revenue with incidental protection." The third faction, the Trimmers, has no particular head, but it has the largest following in the Democratic party.

It is estimaed that the Irish policy of England cost the Bitish taxpayers not less than $25,000,000 last year and that the expense will increase. Before the organization of the Land League the government of Ireland cost less than $11,000,000 a year. An army of 25,000 men was maintained during 1881 and 1882; the constabulary last year numbered about 12,000; the Dublin police force alone cost $1,250,000 last year; the Land Act costs $700,000 a year and the Arrearages Act about 300,000 more. During the last six months the administration of the Crimes Act has cost over $150,000, which goes largely to the lawyers who hang around Dublin Castle.

Since Louisiana was wrested from the Republicans by fraud, it has been controlled by a ring that has plundered and misgoverned the people in the most defiant manner. The press of the state has of late been forced to notice these wrongs, and there is a quite general demand that the present corrupt managers be deposed. This will, however, be a difficult thing to do, since vote-casters determine elections in Louisiana.

Once more the mysterious and ubiquitous False Prophet has been disastrously defeated, and wounded into the bargain. The trouble with him seems to be that he does not know when he is beaten. A proper sense of propriety would long ago have led to his withdrawal from the field, for his struggle is evidently a hopeless one.

GENERAL NOTES.

The bicycle mania has reached Butte, M. T.

Bass fishing was never better on the Upper Delaware river.

The income of London clubs is set down at $2,000,000 annually.

Small clocks are attached to the principal lamp-posts in Amsterdam.

Berlin is about as big a city as Philadelphia, but its pauper poor cost twice as much.

A recent investigator into the character of the mule finds that he is full of bray-vado.

The French Governor General of Dominique has begun inviting colored ladies to his balls.

At London public dinners it has ceased to be in order to rise to any toast except that of the Queen.

The people of Bristol, New Hampshire, have enjoyed sleighing for 142 days, ending with April 12.

The residences of Samuel J. Tilden and Henry Villard in New York are lighted with the Edison light.

Mr. Waddington says that $50,000 is not nearly enough for the coronation embassy from France to Moscow.

France makes more and more silk umbrellas every year. The value of those sold abroad last year was over six millions.

Two men in England were put into prison for six months with hard labor for the offence of poisoning a fish pond with lime.

Petitions against the affirmation, in lieu of oath, in Parliament bill, flow into Westminster at an amazing rate—largely from non-conformists.

A young lady at Bamberg, Germany, has been punished with a fine and costs for the offense of playing the piano at night at an open window.

Cambridge University students "drink tea and coffee, instead of good old port," and a tutor in one of the colleges writes to the papers regretting it.

The Comstock people regard the return of a pair of gray eagles to one of the basalt cliffs of Mt. Davidson as a good omen. They have been gone since 1865.

A sheep pasture in Dimmitt and Webb counties, Texas, contains 300,000 acres and feeds 250,000 sheep. It is believed to be the largest in the the world.

Rock salt on Vermillion Island, off the coast of Louisiana, is twenty feet thick and has to be blasted with dynamite, 200 tons being mined daily in this way.

Minnesota, like older States, is beginning to replace wheat growing by dairy farming, and only 52 per cent of its farm lands, against 68 per cent in 1879, will be given to wheat this year.

In the city election at Terre Haute, Ind., on Tuesday, May 1, the Republicans elected all their ticket except the clerk. The city went Democratic last November by 860 majority. The council falls into the hands of the Democracy.

The first grant of lands recorded in St. Louis, the earliest mortgages, the first marriage and the first baptism, all bear date the same year, 1766. The first mortgage was given by a St. Louis trader to one in Canada, to cover advances, and was to be redeemed by the payment of a certain number of deer skins within a specified time.

The citizens of Athens, Pa., are excavating an old Indian burying ground near that place and have found a great number of tomahawks, arrow heads and vases. Some of the latter are handsomely decorated and partly filled with burnt ochre. They are supposed to be fully 200 years old.

There is a business man in the vicinity of Greenwood, N. C., who, twelve or more years ago, after the death of his wife, played the hermit for eight or ten years. He selected a retired spot under a projecting cliff in the Blue Ridge, near Brown's Gap, and spent several years under it. He then planked up the ends, leaving the front open, where he built his fires.

A centipede caught a lizzard and began making a meal of it as it ran, but not relishing dining on the wing it formed its body in the shape of a hook and caught onto a stout weed. The lizzard was not strong enough to break loose and the cannibal reptile eat its fill and then allowed its victim to crawl off and die; so says Professor Whitell, a reliable Welsh naturalist.

Henry Barrett and Susie Washington, of Louisville, were engaged, and she had her outfit made. A Chicago young man came to town, and Susie took to him so kindly that he agreed to act as substitute for Barrett. The latter went to the dressmaker's and got Susie's clothes and hid them. Finally she concluded she liked him with the clothes better than the Chicago man without them, and they were married.

Benjamin Marvin, of Waterstown, Conn., split a black walnut log open the other day, on one of the halves of which is a picture in the grain of the wood representing a clumb of trees, which is as perfect and distinct though drawn in ink. The trees form a picture about four inches square, show like the open leaf of a book, and the same on the opposite page. Mr. Marvin says it is a pretty good portraiture of the clumb of trees which he felled, the picture appearing in the heart of the largest one.

Poetry.

LIKE THE IVY.

True love is like the ivy bold,
That clings each day with firmer hold;
That groweth on through good or ill,
And 'mid the tempest clingeth still.
What though the wall on which it climbs
Has lost the grace of former times,
Will then the ivy lose its hold,
Forget the sunny days of old?
Nay, rather it will closer cling
With loving clasp, remembering
That it had hardly lived at all
Without the kindly sheltering wall.
True love is like the ivy bold,
That clings each day with firmer hold,
That groweth on through good and ill,
And 'mid the tempest clingeth still.

True love is like the ivy green,
That ne'er forgetteth what hath been,
And so, till life itself be gone,
Until the end it clingeth on.
What though the tree where it may cling
Shall hardly know another spring?
What though its boughs be dead and bare?
The twining ivy climbeth there,
And clasps it with a firmer hold,
With stronger love than that of old,
And lends it grace it never had
When time was young and life was glad.
True love is like the ivy green,
That ne'er forgetteth what hath been,
And so, till life itself be gone,
Until the end it clingeth on. —Anon.

SIGNS OF MAY.

May day and June day,
Spring and summer weather;
Going to rain, going to clear,
Trying both together.
Flowers are coming! No, they're not,
While the air's so chilly;
First it's cold, then it's hot—
Isn't weather silly?
S'pose the little violets think
Spring is rather funny,
So they hide themselves away,
Even where it's sunny.
S'pose the trees must think it's time
To begin their growing,
See the little swelling buds!
See how plain they're showing!
S'pose they know they're going to make
Peaches, apples, cherries.
Even vines and bushes know
When to start their berries.
Only little girls like me
Don't know all about it;
Maybe, though, the reason is
We can do without it.
Winter time and summer time
We keep on a growing;
So, you see, we needn't be—
Like the flowers and like the trees,
And the birds and bumble-bees—
Always wise and knowing.

SHADOW.

It falls before, it follows behind,
Darkest still when the day is bright;
No light without the shadow we find,
And never shadow without the light.

From our shadow we cannot flee away;
It walks when we walk, it runs when we run;
But it tells which way to look for the sun;
We may turn our backs on it any day.

Ever mingle the light and shade
That makes this human world so dear;
Sorrow of joy is ever made,
And what were a hope without a fear?

A morning shadow o'er youth is cast,
Warning from pleasure's dazzling snare;
A shadow lengthening across the past,
Fixes our fondest memories there.

One shadow there is, so dark, so drear,
So broad we see not the brightness round it:
Yet 'tis but the dark side of the sphere
Moving into the light unbounded.

Our Story Teller.

The Young Wife's Plot.

"They are determined not to like me," said Octavia Durell, with tears of mortification and pride sparkling in her eyes as she laid down the frigid letter she had been reading. "And it is cruelly hard for me to be forced to meet them without Sigismund's presence to sustain and uphold me. I know just how it will be. My mother-in-law will look coldly and critically upon everything I do; my step-daughter will fancy me a tyrant, and steel herself against me as if I were an inquisitor. Home will be a dungeon and life a burden. Oh, I wish—I almost wish," she added, correcting herself, with the shy smile of happy wifehood—"that I had never married. But, after all, what nonsense that is, when Sigismund is so good, so noble, so worthy of a wife's devotion!"

Mrs. Durell was on her way home from India, and, seated in the cool, marble-paved apartment at Gibraltar, from whence the Peninsular and Oriental steamship was to sail the next day, she watched the palm leaves swaying in the breeze, the flutter of the gay green and white awnings, and the turbaned Eastern servants passing to and fro with trays of black coffee and delicately flavored ices, moulded to imitate apples, oranges and pomegranates, with absent, unseeing eyes.

Never before had she been parted from her husband, who was American consul at one of the oriental ports, but a sudden call had arisen for his presence many hundred miles back in the mountain country—a wilderness to which it was impossible that he could take his delicate young wife.

"There is no telling how long I may be detained among these semi-savages, Octy," he had said to his wife, "and I can neither take you nor leave you. Go home to my mother, and make friends with little Eudora. It is possible that I may follow you in a few months, if all goes well. But, at all events, I shall feel safer if you are secure on American soil. Benson, your maid, is an accustomed traveler, and Leonard, who commands the Pacific, is my old friend, so that you will lack no care."

"But, Sigismund," cried Mrs. Durell, with a countenance of ludicrous dismay, "a—mother-in law! and a stepdaughter! To be compelled to confront them, all by myself!"

"My dear little goose?" said the consul, laughing. "Now you are frightened at mere shadows. "My mother is the dearest old lady in the world, and Dora is a darling."

"Couldn't I stay with you?" pleaded the young wife, clinging to his arm. "I'd rather be murdered by the natives, or die of cholera down on the plains, than go back to America all by myself!"

"Nonsense! nonsense! nonsense!" cheerily cried out Mr. Durell.

And so the matter had been settled. And Octavia was thus far on her tedious voyage home, when, crossing the chequered pavement without, a slight, graceful figure glided by, with floating lace scarf and deeply fringed, rose-colored parasol.

"It's Janie Weldon!" cried Octavia springing up and rushing out to intercept the movements of the beautiful stranger.

"Why," cried Miss Weldon, in infinite surprise, "it is Octavia Olcott! And here, on the heights of Gibraltar! Of all places who would have dreamed of meeting you here?"

"I am going to America," said Octavia.

"So am I," said Miss Weldon.

"But my name isn't Olcott any longer," added the young wife, laughing and blushing. "I am Mrs. Sigismund Durell."

"Then," said Miss Weldon, with her eyes growing larger and more brilliant than ever, "you are the daughter-in-law of Mrs. Alkmond Durell, the very lady I am going to Durell Court to visit. Do tell me about her! Is she nice? Is she lively? Is she—"

Octavia burst out laughing.

"I never saw her in my life," said she.

"Neither have I," said Miss Weldon. "But she has invited me to visit her because my Aunt Barbara was an old friend of hers. And you really have married the charming young consul-widower? My darling, I congratulate you!"

"I was a governess at Calcutta," said Octavia, blushing and looking exceedingly pretty. "And—"

"I see how it was," nodded Miss Weldon, who had been Octavia's schoolmate long ago. "Love at first sight—and I don't blame him, when I see how pretty you have grown. And I suppose dear old Mrs. Durell is delighted to have you?"

"She isn't delighted at all," said Octavia, solemnly. "She has written me a letter as cold as ice, regretting that her son should have married again so precipitately (just as if his first wife hadn't been dead five years) hoping that we should be congenial, but fearing very much that I should find the quiet and solitude of Durell Court too dull for my tastes."

"But that's horrid!" said Miss Weldon.

"Not in the least like the letter she wrote me. Wait a minute—I have it here in my pocket."

And, with a heart thrilled by involuntary envy, Mrs. Durell read the affectionate, almost motherly epistle which invited Miss Weldon, for her aunt's sake, to make Durell Court her home for as long a period as she pleased, assuring her of the warmest welcome and love.

Octavia's eyes filled with tears.

"Why couldn't she have written such a letter to me?" she exclaimed.

"Because, my dear, you are her daughter-in-law," Miss Weldon philosophically answered. "No woman can welcome the girl who has stolen away her son's heart. It isn't in human nature."

Octavia was silent for a moment; then she exclaimed, suddenly:

"Janie, I've an inspiration—a positive inspiration! Let me go! And you keep away for a little while!"

"Go where? Keep away from whom?" said Miss Weldon, in amazement; and then, with brightening eyes, she added: "Oh, I see! Octavia, you are a genius! Come here and sit by me, and we'll arrange it all."

* * * * * * *

The golden autumn-time had come, and the woods around Durell Court were wearing their brightest dyes.

Little Eudora had skipped around all day, gathering the sweetest roses, arranging violets in saucers of Dresden china, adding new beauties to the suit of apartments which had been prepared for Miss Weldon, the only child of "grandmama's dearest friend."

"For we must enjoy her society all we can before my odious stepmother comes," said Eudora, all unconscious that she was in the least degree uncharitable.

Poor child! she only echoed the chime of popular opinion, after all.

And when grandmama's poney phæton came back from the train with the tall lovely lady in black, Eudora flew into her arms, with all a child's innocent enthusiasm.

"Stand off a little, and let me look at you," said the child, joyously, pushing back her jetty curls—ah, so like Sigismund's that Octavia's heart thrilled within her! "Oh, you are exactly like what I pictured you in my mind! And we are going to be so happy together—you and I, and grandmama—until—until my step mother comes!"

Octavia looked wistfully at her.

"Dear Eudora!" she said, impulsively, "I love you already. Promise me that you will love me!"

The warm-hearted little girl covered her cheeks, brow and lips with kisses.

"Dear Miss Weldon," said she, "I promize you a thousand times over!"

And Mrs. Durell led the guest smilingly to her room.

"My darling," said she, "I want you to be very happy here. For you are filling a place in our hearts that has long been vacant—my daughter's place!"

"But Mrs. Sigismund Durell?" suggested the stranger, coloring deeply.

The old lady made a gesture of dissent.

"I can never love her!" she uttered, sadly.

"But me—you will be kind to me?"

"My dear Janie, you are like my own child already!" lovingly spoke the old lady.

And Mrs. Durell never suspected the rain of bitter tears which poor Octavia shed when she was at last left alone.

"But I will make them love me!" she thought; "and when once their affection is thoroughly mine, I will not let them withdraw it from me, merely because I am Octavia Durell instead of Janie Weldon!"

And this beautiful young impostor had not been a week in the house before she had won all hearts. She was grandma's darling, Eudora's confident, the pet and sunshine of the house. And oh, how her heart beat when Mrs. Durell looked at her tenderly one evening, and said, with a kiss.

"Dear little Janie, I was thinking how many thousand dollars I would give if Sigismund's wife were like you."

Octavia turned first red, then white.

"Mrs. Durell," she said, hurriedly, "if I were Sigismund's wife—"

And just then a bevy of guests were shown in, and the words of confession were checked on Octavia's lips.

But the secret betrayed itself at last, as secrets will always do.

It was a rosy December sunset, the snowy fields all dyed with carmine, the huge fire of mossy logs crackling in the tiled fireplace of Durell Court. The old lady was serenely dozing in the blaze, and Eudora was helping her guest to arrange roses, fresh gathered from the green-houses, in antique majolica vases, when the door suddenly opened and a tall, well-moulded figure strode in.

"Well, mother! Well, Eudora—"

The old lady started up with a cry. Eudora looked with dilated, wondering eyes; but first and swiftest of them all Octavia was in her husband's arms.

"Sigismund!" she cried, hysterically, "oh, Sigismund!"

Old Mrs. Durell recovered herself with an effort, and looked on in amazement.

"Sigismund," said she, "I did not know that this lady—"

"This lady, mother, he answered brightly, "is the sweetest and dearest little lady in all the world to me—my wife!"

And Octavia hid her face on her mother-in-law's shoulder.

"Dear Mrs. Durell," she whispered, "forgive me for stealing your heart by strategy, for, indeed, I despaired of ever winning it in any other way. Jane Weldon told me that I might borrow her personality. She, too, is coming after New Years, and—"

"I'm sure," said Mrs. Durell, nervously wiping her spectacle glasses, "I don't know what to say."

"Say 'I forgive you,'" said Octavia, "and say also 'I love you, daughter!'"

"I love you, dear little daughter," said the old lady, falteringly. "And as for forgiving—why, I am not certain but that I need forgiveness the most of all!"

While little Eudora clung closely to the young wife's side.

"I don't care whether you are my stepmother or not," she said. "I love you, and I shall always call you mama, now!"

And then the happy, excited little group gathered around the fire, and explanations followed all around.

Octavia had to recount her little plot, so often nearly betrayed by the fullness of her own heart. Sigismund had to relate the combination of circumstances by which he had obtained a year's leave of absence from his Eastern consulate, and managed to take them by surprise; and a more joyful little household was nowhere to be found.

"I was beginning to wonder why Mrs. Durell, junior, did not come," said the lady, with a smile.

"And I was dreading it, terribly," said Eudora, with a pretty little moze, "and all the time the mischievous darling was in our midst."

And that very night Octavia sat down and wrote Janie Weldon what a success her plot had proved.—Helen Forrest Graves.

A Deserving Case.

Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the training school for Indian youths at Carlisle, Pa., tells of an Indian lad eighteen years old, who appeared at that school, only a few weeks ago, having found his way half across the continent, in search of an education. He had $2 75 on starting from his Western home. That brought him across the Missrssippi River. Then by walking four days together, and getting an occasional ride on a freight train, he made the rest of the long journey. He sold his Indian ornaments for $2.25 to give him bread on the way. If these ornaments had been sold at a church fair, in behalf of the missionary, for sending the gospel to those who wouldn't come and look it up, they would probably have brought a great deal higher price than that. Coming over the Allegheny mountain range the Indian's worn out moccassins were no protection to his feet against the snow, and he bartered his blankets for a pair of shoes. At last he reached the Carlisle school, and asked to be a sharer there of the gospel privileges that some persons have thought his race unworthy of. What race could be named that would show a nobler spirit than this, or a fuller fitness for the reception of the best influences of Christianity? Captain Pratt has asked help for the support of that boy; and it would be a crying shame to us all if he didn't receive it.

Who is Punished?

Detroit Free Press.

He wasn't such a bad man as men average, though he was not a hard worker and he didn't have a good husband's and father's interest in his family. What they wore and what they ate he earned, whether it was good or bad, and wife and children depended upon him. One day when he had been drinking he got into a row, stabbed one of the party and was taken to the station. There was not $2 worth of provisions in the house but there was a wife and five children, and while they wept over the fate which had overtaken husband and father their faces paled at the thought of the almost empty cupboard, their scant clothing and the rent overdue.

"This man is a bad man and he must be punished," said the public.

"How?"

"Why, we'll send him to State prison for a year or more."

"And his family?"

The public shrugged its shoulder and made no reply.

That man was a bad man but his wife was a praying, God-fearing woman and his children had innocent hearts. They were not to blame for the deeds of the father. Yes, the man must be punished, and he was punished. He was punished by a year in prison where he was well clothed, well fed, furnished with a good bed, attended by a doctor when necessary, and his work was but play to his strong muscles. Instead of feeling degraded he entered prison with head erect and the firm conviction that he had vindicated his manhood by stabbing the fellow who had struck him. For a year he was better fed and better lodged than since he could remember and he gained flesh. Thus was he "punished" to come home and find himself a corner-grocer hero and plenty of anxious men to befriend him.

Now what of the family? Even before the husband had been arraigned for trial the wife had to sell the best of her furniture. He was not yet sentenced when the children were sent out to beg. The day they "punished" the bad man by starting him to a comfortable prison his family were turned into the street and remained there all day and all night. When they found a home in a hovel the children went begging for food and the mother for work. In a year exposure and suffering consigned the mother and three children to paupers' graves and the other two had been sent among strangers to find homes. The "punished" man comes out fat and healthy to discover that he has only himself to look after, the law having kindly made vagrants and beggars of his family and then killed and buried the most of them.

"He's got such a dose as will make him behave himself in future," says the public.

The "dose" is forty pounds of fat, a system cleansed of whiskey and a more rugged look than he carried for twenty years, having scarce enough interest to ask when his wife died and what had become of the children the law didn't kill and bury.

It is nothing if "law" breakes up homes and makes beggars and paupers and skeleton corpses by the half-dozen to punish one man over whose action the sufferers had not the least control. Lawmakers are wise men and we must admire their wisdom.

Was it Luck, or What?

We take the following singular narrative from a recent issue of the Cambria Freeman: That well know philanthropist and public spirited gentleman, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who a number of years ago was superintendent of the Pittsburg division of the Pennsylvania railroad, recently extended an invitation to visit New York to three of the oldest locomotive engineers on said road, to wit: Messrs. Henry Cassidy, Thomas Ridley and Sol. Hoffmaster—the two first named, then as now, being employed on Mr. Carnegie's old division, while the latter is still running an engine on the middle division—assuring them at the same time that all the sights of the city would be shown them without money and without cost, and that they would return home with something more in their pockets than either of them took with him. This generous proposal was accepted by Messrs. Ridley and Hoffmaster, who started for New York on Wednesday or Thursday of last week, but for some reasons Mr. Cassidy concluded not to indulge in the trip, and reaching Cresson from Altoona on his way home to Munster township, this county, on Thursday morning, took a notion to walk the rest of the way instead of waiting till nearly noon for our branch train to bring him to Munster. That this conclusion was an exceedingly sensible one the sequel will show. Trudging along at a pretty lively gait for a man of his age, Mr. Cassidy in due time came within about six hundred yards of his own residence, when he discovered a red spot on the roof of the house which at first sight he was unable to account for, but which soon developed into a flame and left no reason to doubt that the building was on fire. Hastening forward with all the speed he could command, Mr. Cassidy reached home pretty nearly exhausted from running and found his family in blissful ignorance of the work of destruction then going on right over their heads, and which, would beyond doubt have left them without a dwelling to call their own. It is needless to add that the fire, which originated we know not how, was extinguished as speedily as possible, and before any serious damage could be done. And now for the moral: Had Mr. Cassidy gone on the pleasure trip to which he was invited, or even had he waited for the branch train to convey him to Munster, in all human probability he would have reached home, or where his home had been, only to find his house a heap of ruins and his family without a roof to shelter them. Who will say that there was not something more than mere chance in this coincidence?"

The National Banks.

The national bank statement just made by Comptroller Knox for March 13, like much else made public this Spring, shows not so much poor trade as trade without growth. The showing is a good deal better than any made four or five years ago, and it is only the extraordinary prosperity of the years 1879–82 which makes the showing now tame or insignificant. The position of the national banks at various recent dates is shown by millions in the following table:

	October 1, 1881.	Dec. 31, 1881.	March 11, 1882.	October 3, 1882.	March 13, 1883.
Loans	1,173	1,169	1,182	1,243	1,244
Deposits	1,053	1,114	1,048	1,134	1,016
Specie	114	113	110	102	97
Capital	463	466	469	483	490
Circulation	320	325	323	315	317

The number of banks at the first date selected, which was very nearly high water mark for our present era of prosperity, was 2132, it is now 2343; but while this increase in corporations has been accompanied by a growth of about 5 per cent. in capital, circulation has decreased. Loans have remained stationary for the past six months, a significant proof that there has been no such expansion in the needs of business as raised loans $329,000,000 in three years, from $834,000,000. October 1, 1878, to the total given above. The specie in our banks trebled in the three years mentioned and deposits advanced nearly 60 per cent. Aside from the net loss of specie, the character of this reserve is deteriorating. A year ago, with a total of $109,984,111, the specie reserve consisted of $102,081,706 in gold and $7,902,405 in silver. Now, out of $97,963,866, $8,839,292 is in silver, and not worth over eighty-two or eighty-three cents on the dollar, and only $89,124,583 is in gold. This is a mere fraction of the like change in the Federal treasury; but it is one affecting a much smaller safety reserve.—Phila. Press.

The Music of Dynamite.

At the Baptist ministers' meeting in New York on May 1, the Rev. D. C. Potter of that city, read an essay, in the course of which he said: "Modern charity does not reach the real want. Modern charity is a tinker, everlastingly attempting to mend and putty up. The charity and philanthropy you and I boast of are the representatives of wealth. Wealth which (save in the hands of here and there a man like Peter Cooper) sends turkey to the poor-house on Christmas, and charity that clothes itself in silks and broadcloth, and dances amid showers of diamonds at the Charity Ball, while the poor are given calico and jute, are the popular and recognized kinds of wealth and charity, and they win applause by their display, but they hold the common man by the throat. They outrage humanity, and they libel the fair names of philanthropy and charity. The issue between the common man and this class is an issue of blood. Something besides plasters and salve is demanded. This sore is chronic, constitutional. The regular charities of to-day are palliative. Cotton is tucked under the collar to relieve the galled shoulder, but the collar is never taken off. It galls in a new spot. Modern charity but prolongs the misery of underpaid, dispirited, and demoralized persons. But the volcano is rumbling. I hear it every day in the shops, in the streets in the night. The mad demonstrations over the sea are but the first indications of the coming storm. While thousands are startled by giant concussions and terrified by up-splitting thunder, there are other thousands to whom these dreadful alarms bring hope. To them it is music. It is not the boom of fate, but the jubilant roar announcing a day of liberty."

The management of the Pennsylvania railroad is about as near perfection as the traveling public could desire. The block signal system insures protection to passenger trains from collision as absolutely as is possible under rules which must more or less depend for their observance upon the intelligence and fidelity of trusted employes. Not the least of the conveniences provided for the patrons of the road is the bureau of information at the Broad street station. Not only can all desired information as to the movement of trains and connections with branch roads be obtained there, but also articles left in the cars. As soon as a train arrives in the depot the cars are searched by employes detailed for the purpose, and all articles left in them are taken to the bureau of information, where they are marked with the number of train and date when found and entered in a book kept for that purpose. When a missing article is called for and identified the owner signs his name to the record, which serves as a receipt and also protects the company against fraudulent claimants.

The attempt to blow up the London Times with dynamite did not succeed because one of the editors had just finished a two-column editorial on "The Negation of Philosophy," which was lying on his desk at the time. It will require a more powerful agency than dynamite to blow up a building held down by such a weight.

Landlords in Leadville.

Houses are seldom plastered in Leadville; not because of the salubrity of the climate, however; they are run hastily up and lined with a fabric which is not mosquito netting, though its mesh is not noticeably less open. When this is covered with paper one has secured a fine breezy dwelling which can be offered with safety to tenants accompanied by a guarantee against perspiration. But an indemnification against frost would be what is known to insurance companies as "a poor risk." When he has paid his landlord $25 for a month's use of four wretched rooms, open to the winds of heaven and the burglars of earth and finds himself obliged to break the ice in his pitcher on the first morning after taking possession, he is not without his feelings. One pays the Leadville landlord in advance. The penal code which metes out such swift and complete justice to certain forms of crime is a little diffident touching the offence of men lacking a proper sense of the obligation of legal debts. When a man as it is called, "jumps" a mining claim in Leadville, he is commonly shot, but when, as happens daily, a tenant gives up a house without the usual formality the real estate agent merely deplores the stupidity which has caused him to allow the man a little time, and reminds himself to force advance payment in future.—Ex.

In extent of territory swept over and destructiveness to life and property, the cyclone of Sunday, April 22d, seems to have been very remarkable, and far greater than any like disturbance now remembered. Every day since its occurrence has brought fresh and appalling details from the devastated region, and the discovery of new tracks in the march of the monster until now the human lives lost foot up fully two hundred, while the loss of livestock and property is enormous. The character and operation of the cyclonic disturbance are very different from that of the whirl-wind, or ordinary storm, which moves over a tract of country expending its fury in the centre and gathering in its fatal grasp everything within a certain distance to hurl it high in air, or carry it for miles only to make the destruction more complete. The cyclone comes down and expends its fury in spots. The one which has just visited the southwest, however, seems to have traveled through the air high above the earth, and here and there to have let drop its fury in a manner very extraordinary.

Spring Fever.

We are now at the beginning of a season, remarks an exchange, when everybody has suspicions that there is something the matter with himself, although he is sure he does not know what it is. The symptoms are various; the good young man writes more poetry than at any other season and the bad young man drinks more rum; the country maiden roams without a shawl and catches cold, and the city girl wakes every morning with a headache. Male gossips are not so amiable as usual in their chats around the postoffice stove. Gentlemen frown savagely when slightly jostled on the sidewalk, ladies glare disapproval at one another's bonnets, and everyone resents any sudden noise, like the slamming of a door, as a personal affront.

All this comes of what is called Spring fever—a malady that yields readily to light diet and regular habits, or frequent baths and plenty of vegetable food.

Heights Above the Sea.

The highest country seat in Pennsylvania is Somerset, it being 2,106 feet above the level of the sea. Ebensburg, Cambria county, is next in order, its elevation being 2,022 feet. Wellsboro is eighth in the list, the elevation being 1,319 feet. Its superiors are Somerset, Ebensburg, Clarion, Ridgway, Smethport, Coudersport and Montrose. Philadelphia is nearest the sea level, it being only 32 feet above, while Norristown, Montgomery county, is only 75. Sunbury is 444, Williamsport 527, Lock Haven 556, Bellefonte 744 and Clearfield 1,096.

Resurrecting a Corpse.

HARRISBURG, May 2.—The greenback state committee at a meeting this afternoon decided to hold a state convention at Williamsport on August 30. T. S. Heath tendered his resignation as chairman and T. A vote of censure was passed upon William Howard, late candidate for lieutenant governor, on account of a letter written by him criticising the actions of Thomas A. Armstrong, the gubernatorial candidate.

Regimental Reunion.

LANCASTER, May 2.—The final arrangements for the reunion of the One Hundred and Twenty-second regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, on May 17, were completed Tuesday evening. Smith, of this city, will read the historical sketch of the regiment. The exercises will close with a banquet.

Pittsburgh's May Music Festival.

PITTSBURGH, April 30.—The first concert of the May musical festival was given this evening by a chorus of 300 voices. Theodore Thomas and his orchestra and Madam Minnie Hauk, Mons. Humphrey Allen, Miss Lillian Norton Hortdedgen, Mrs. Belle Cole, Fred. Herve and Franz Remmutz as soloists. The programme was of a miscellaneous character.

The Bridge Opening.

NEW YORK, May 1.—In the Board of Aldermen to-day a resolution was adopted requesting the trustees of the East river bridge to change the day of opening the bridge from the 24th to the 30th instant, Decoration Day. The reason given by the Alderman offering the resolution was that as the 24th of May was the birthday of the Queen of England it was a day that was offensive to the Irish race.

Exchanging Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The exchange of 3½ per cent. bonds into 3 per cents, which was suspended during April, was resumed. The amount of bonds surrendered for exchange to-day was about $700,000, which swells the total amount of exchanges to nearly $131,000,000.

Snatched from the Grave.

My wife was at the brink of the grave. She had been given up to die by three of Allegheny City's best physicians. They all pronounced her disease consumption. Her finger-nails and lips were blue; was pulseless at the wrist; we were all called to witness her death. At this moment a neighbor brought in Dr. Hartman, who prescribed a teaspoonful of Peruna every hour. She improved from the first dose, and in a week she was up, and now (less than six months) she is well. See page 30 in the "Ills of Life," a book you can get gratis from your druggist. Dr. Sherman.

Rupture

Relieved and cured by Dr. J. A. SHERMAN'S method, without regard to age or duration of the affliction, or the injury trusses inflict, or hindrance from labor, and with security from strangulation—of which, according to statistics, not less than 30,000 died during the past year. No one is safe who has a rupture and depends upon a truss; both are a physical and mental tax; bring on kidney, bladder and other organic diseases, which affect general health more than age or labor, besides affecting manhood and destroying all incentives to social pleasure.

Patients from abroad can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's book, with photographic likenesses of bad cases, before and after cure, and indorsements by Physicians, Merchants, Farmers and others who have been cured, mailed for 10c. Send for it and inform yourself. Principal office, 251 Broadway, N. Y.; days of consultation each week, Mondays, Tuesdays and Saturdays. 15 18 4t

OF ANOTHER AGE.

Gradually Supplanted by a Better Article, Certain Old Things are Done Away.

In the general reception room of the Western Union Telegraph building on Broadway, New York, are exhibited the coarse, crude and clumsy instruments of the infancy of the telegraph. They are only relics now. More perfect machinery has superseded them.

Years ago what is now styled the old-fashioned porous plaster did some good service. There was then nothing better of the kind. Now all that is changed. Science and study have gone deeper into the secrets of medicine and produced BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER, which embodies all the excellencies thus far possible in an external remedy. The old plasters were slow—the Capcine is rapid; they were uncertain—the Capcine is sure. Cheaper articles bear similar names. Be careful, therefore, that some thrifty druggist does not deceive you. In the centre of the genuine is cut the word CAPCINE. Price 25 cents.

Workmen and Wages.

PITTSBURG, May 3.—The coal miners' strike has developed nothing particularly new to-day. The miners suggest that the difference be settled by an appeal to the process set forth in the voluntary trades tribunal act and ask that the operators petition the court for a license for a tribunal. Secretary Flannery says if they do this the miners will assent promptly, as they do not want to strike, but feel it their duty to resist any encroachments of capital on their rights. If the operators refuse to petition the miners will petition. This afternoon an official call for an inter-state convention of miners to be held here on May 15 was issued.

The printers of this city connected with the knights of labor have presented a yearly scale of wages demanded in the offices of the Dispatch, Commercial Gazette, Times, Telegraph and Chronicle. The scale maintains last year's rate but demands that "weekly men" be dispensed with in newspaper offices. The middle of the present month is the time at which the scale goes into effect.

The condition of the tanners' and plasterers' strike is unchanged.

The iron manufacturers and the Amalgamated association conference committee met this afternoon for the purpose of arranging a scale of wages for the ensuing year. It is impossible to predict the outcome of the meeting as both sides refuse to talk upon the subject, but it is generally believed that it will result in a strike

The second conference of the iron manufacturers and amalgamated association committee, which was held this afternoon, lasted only fifteen minutes. President Jarret, on behalf of the workmen, stated that no reduction in wages would be accepted. The manufacturers made no response but on motion adjourned sine die.

The Fire Record.

RACINE, Wis., May 3.—A fire last night in the Masonic block damaged the stock of C. C. Brown, the batter $15,000; insured for $13,500.

MOLINE, Ill., May 3.—The brick building occupied as a hotel and owned by Mrs. B. Hourler was burned yesterday morning. Loss, $10,000

FORT FAIRFIELD, Me., May 3.—A fire last night turned twelve families into the street. Nine stores nd shops were burned. It is impossible to estimate the loss at present. All is partially insured. Everything was burned from the school house to the postoffice.

PETERBORO, N. H., May 3.—The Barker paper mill, owned by Sylvester Teony, was burned last night. It was run by Clarke & Jacobs, Worcester, Mass., who lose their entire stock.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, May 3.—Last night the South-Hill street car stable was destroyed by fire with twenty horses, cars, etc.; also, two adjoining residences. Nothing was saved. Loss, $20,000; insurance, light.

News Concerning Indians.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—Late advices from New Mexico says that reports of Indian depredations are again rife. Muchachs, a renegade Mescaloro Apache, with about twenty of Victoria's old band, attacked a pack train a day or two ago near White Sands and three companies of cavalry have started in pursuit. Another smaller band raided a ranche at Alamo Springs, and Colonel Forsythe has sent two companies of the Fourth cavalry after them.

Advices from the Cherokee nation, Indian territory, say the national council met in special session at Tahlequah April 30. There was a full attendance and a large outside gathering.

Railroad Management.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The board of directors of the New York Central, Lake Shore and Michigan Central railroad companies met to-day and William K. Vanderbilt announced his intention of retiring from the presidency. Cornelius Vanderbilt was elected chairman of the board of directors and James H. Rutter, president of the New York Central. William K. Vanderbilt was elected chairman of the board of directors and John Newell president of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, and Cornelius Vanderbilt chairman and H. B. Ledyard president of the Michigan Central.

It will be noticed that while Mr. Vanderbilt retires from the presidency and his sons from the vice presidency, under the new by-laws, a position of chairman of the board of directors is created with general supervisory powers. Under this arrangement Cornelius Vanderbilt becomes chairman of the New York Central and Michigan Central boards and William K. Vanderbilt remains president of the Nickel Plate road and becomes chairman of the Lake Shore directors. Each of them is also a member of the board of the company of which his brother is chairman. This plan relieves W. K. Vanderbilt and his sons of the detail work and devolves it upon those who have been actively engaged in it before. It also illustrates that in their management merit is recognized by deserved promotion. The harmonious working of the various companies forming what is popularly known as the Vanderbilt system is thus assured as well as the permanent control of the Vanderbilt interest. The absence or inability, or even the death of any one of them, would not disturb the relations of the survivors to the properties.

The Noose of Death.

TRENTON, Ga., May 4.—D. F. Walker, one of the Hardberger murderers, was hanged here to-day. He was visited in the jail for the first time this morning by two ministers, who labored with him in his cell for two hours. At the end of that time he professed religion and said his sins were forgiven and that he was ready to die. The gallows were erected a hundred yards in the rear of the jail. The spectators were estimated at nearly 10,000. Walker confessed the crime and acknowledged that he ought to hang. He met his death unflinchingly. The drop fell at twenty minutes of 1 o'clock.

A Row at an Execution.

CHATANOOGA, May 4.—D. F. Walker was hanged to day at Trenton, Ga., for the murder of S. S. Hardberger, on Sand Mountain, last October. Hardberger was waylaid on the highway and murdered by Walker and Lee Treece. The latter turned state's evidence and was sentenced to prison for ten years. Walker met his death without a tremor. He made a long speech on the gallows. The fall broke his neck. After the hanging a row occurred, and George Bird, the brother of the sheriff, in attempting to quell it, was shot and several persons were badly beaten.

The Leader of a Lynch Mob Surrenders.

BISMARCK, Dak., May 3.—William A. Wilson, from Mouse river, gave himself up on Tuesday for killing a man named Bailey last month. It seems that Bailey had killed a settler, taking his wife, money and other effects, and Wilson was leader of the crowd in taking Bailey to justice. Bailey attempted to get away from the citizens and fired at Wilson, who fired in return, the ball taking effect in Bailey's stomach. The latter, before expiring, confessed the murder of a man named Woodruff last December, and that he threw the body into the Mouse river.

Amicably Adjusted.

CHICAGO, May 6.—A number of conferences between striking bricklayer and employers have taken place within the past two days, and as a consequence it is confidently announced that the men will return to work to-morrow. It is contended that concessions have been made on both sides, but the men will probably receive all they demanded in point of wages, namely, four dollars per day. It is intimated that while building has been seriously retarded, the strike will have no bearing in the sense of limiting the number of structures contemplated.

Phipps found Guilty.

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—The jury in the case of Major Ellis P. Phipps, ex-superintendent of the almshouse, yesterday found him guilty of forgery. There was a great crowd present in the court room. The prisoner displayed no nervousness. A motion was made for a new trial and there being no objection offered the request was granted.

The Pistol in the South.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2.—John O'Callahan challenged his brother-in-law, Michael Nealen to a pistol duel, owing, it is alleged, to slanders uttered by Nealen against the former's family. They met in Decatur street last night and fired at 15 paces. Nealen was wounded and sent to the hospital. Both were placed under arrest.

Sensation in the Dublin Court.

DUBLIN, May 2.—Patrick Delaney and Thomas Caffrey, two more of the men charged with participation in the murder of Cavendish and Burke, were arraigned for trial this morning. They created a sensation in the court room by pleading guilty to the charge against them. Both were sentenced to be hanged on the 2d of June.

A Clever Capture.

NEW YORK, May 6.—James Henry Marriott, a young Englishman, for years a trusted clerk and salesman in the large jewelry and diamond house of Franz Kramer, No. 1 Rue de la Paix, Paris, mysteriously disappeared on the 7th of March last with $75,000 worth of diamonds belonging to his employer. The police were promptly informed of Marriott's disappearance and an extensive search was instituted for the missing man, but not the slightest clue to his whereabouts was obtained by the shrewd detectives. It was at first supposed that Marriott had fallen into the hands of thieves, who, after robbing him of the diamond which he carried, had killed him and made away with his body. There were many points unearthed during the inquiries made by the secret police which tended to support the theory advanced. The firm had the utmost confidence in their salesman, and for a time they would not allow the least shadow of suspicion to rest on him. He was traced to England, but eluded pursuit. Marriott soon afterward fled from England and reached this city by steamer on the 12th of last month. The stolen stones were successfully smuggled into this city.

Marriott was arraigned to-day in the police court. He was held in default of bail.

Advocates of Dynamite.

NEW YORK, May 6.—O'Donovan Rossa to-day established another branch of the Irish voluntary brotherhood here. About one hundred members were initiated. Captain Jno. Kerwin was elected president, and Dr. McFarree secretary. Dynamite was declared to be the weapon of war. It was decided that a mass meeting be held to express views on the Philadelphia convention, which is said to be disapproved by a majority of those present to-day.

Oppose the Opening.

NEW YORK, May 6.—At to-day's meeting of the central labor union it was decided to call a mass meeting to oppose the opening of the Brooklyn bridge on the Queen's birthday.

It was also decided to boycott Kinney Bros., tobacco manufacturers, as their hands are on a strike.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

Another Death—Mr. Samuel Stine Passes Away.

On Sunday evening, May 6, Mr Samuel Stine, who lives near Curtin station, passed away from earth. He had been ill only a few days during which he suffered much, but was unconscious for some time previous to the hour of his death. His disease was congestion of the brain.

Mr. Stine was a respected citizen and the proprietor of extensive flouring mills. He was also a sincere Christian man and was ready to meet death at any time. His age was about 50 years. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his death. We extend to them our sincere sympathy.

—On Saturday morning, Mr. Caleb Kephart, who lives near Valentines' Ironworks, had occasion to take some of the essence of peppermint. The bottle containing the mixture was in in his trunk which also contained a bottle of arsenic. Mr. Kephart got hold of the bottle containing the latter poison and accidentally swallowed part of its contents. An emetic was at once administered and Mr. Kephart was relieved of this deadly dose before it had done its terrible work. He was quite ill, however, and will guard carefully against a repetition of such an unfortunate occurrence.

—The interesting story "Was it Luck, or What?" printed elsewhere in this issue is denied in a late issue of the Altoona Tribune. The latest account says that the folks at home were so startled at the untimely approach of Mr. Cassidy that one of them threw a large quantity of chips on the fire that the meal might be more hastily prepared. The sparks ignited the roof. If Mr. Cassidy had not put in appearance at the time no such thing would have occurred. We prefer, however, to believe the story first published.

—"Claire," in his letter to the Philipsburg Journal, says that there will not be a very exciting election next fall, as the county officers except District Attorney, hold over until next year. The officers are all elected for a period of three years, but formerly the term of District Attorney was only two years, which was afterwards changed to three years. Thus the year in which he is elected is not the same in which the other officers are elected. For this office Mr. Heinle will probably be the Democratic nominee.

The Glorious Fourth.

The first breath of warm weather last week caused the members of the Undine Hose Company to recollect that "among the days we celebrate" the anneversary of American Independence continues to occupy a prominent place and they are about organizing a movement to make the coming Fourth of July in Bellefonte one of the greatest in the history of the borough.

The celebration which they are planning will of course take the shape of a picnic. It will be held either on the fair ground or in Valentine's woods, no definite arrangements in regard to that having yet been completed. A very large number of companies which have extended courtesies to the Undine Hose Comany in the past will be invited to participate and the invitations sent out thus early will be the first received by the companies and will of course be accepted.

We are much pleased to know that the fire laddies have commenced the celebration boom at this early day. It will afford them opportunity to mature preparations which will render it a decided success. It is calculated that the expenses will not exceed $200, as dinner and supper are all the entertainment which it will be necessary to offer the visiting companies, in addition to the entire expenses of one company that extended a similar act of courtesy to the Undine boys on a previous occasion. The hotel proprietors, together with a few citizens, have already pledged themselves to the extent of $75 and it is expected that the balance of the subscriptions will be raised without much effort. We are sure that our citizens, when approached on the subject, should not hesitate to contribute largely and willingly, as several anniversaries of the country's natal day have passed without any extraordinary observance of it. We shall be pleased to record the future progress of the preparation until it terminates in a grand demonstration of music and fireworks on the Fourth of July, 1883.

—The consumption of all kinds of canned goods has increased rapidly of late years both at home and abroad, though our exportations are restricted by an apparently unfounded prejudice in Europe against the American article. Canned salmon and oysters are our principal exportations in this line. A comparatively small amount of corn is exported, though some goes to London and to Germany. The home consumption of canned corn, however, is very large and it is thought that canned goods generally, corn included, will ultimately be among the most important of our exportations.

—Must be sold. The finest lot of grave stones and monuments ever seen and at prices to suit buyers, at Heisler's Bellefonte Marble Works.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

C. C. Wick & Co., Cleveland, O., have in press, and will issue in May, a new book entitled "On a Mexican Mustang Through Texas," by Sweet & Knox, the humerous editors of the famous Texas Siftings. It will be a work of 650 pages, giving sketches of the characteristics, eccentricities and atrocities of some of the quaintest people in some of the queerest corners of the United States, and will contain more than 200 original illustrations, drawn by the best artists in our country. The writings of these unrivaled humorists have been received with universal favor by the press and people, not only of this country, but in England and elsewhere, and it is safe to predict for the forthcoming volume an unparalleled sale. Authors, artists and publishers have combined to produce a book of rare interest, elegant in its make-up and unique and attractive in its illustrations. It will be sold only by subscription, and canvassers will do well to make early application to the publishers for further information. Address C. C. Wick & Co., 307 Superior street, Cleveland, O.

Died Away from Home.

We clip an item from the Tyrone correspondence of the Altoona Tribune which will be of interest to our readers in the vicinity of Scotia. The correspondence is dated the 5th:

On Tuesday evening a man named Robert Sayers, evidently in the last stage of consumption, arrived at the Eagle hotel and engaged supper and lodging for the night, and by morning the disease, which was gnawing at his very vitals, had seized such firm hold upon his now emaciated form as to render him almost helpless. He continued to suffer till about 5 o'clock Friday morning, when his spirit fled to the God who gave it. Letters found on his person corroborated the statement made by himself as to his name, and also to his wife living at Lewistown, although up to this writing, 6 p. m., there has been no reply to a letter written to her on Wednesday and telegrams sent since his death. If no word is had from friends till this (Saturday) morning his remains will be interred at the expense of the county in Tyrone cemetery. The deceased seems to have been engaged in mining ore at Scotia. He was about 45 years of age, five feet ten inches in height and had smooth face and black hair.

The following is from Monday's correspondence of the Tribune:

Mrs. Sayers, wife of the deceased man, upon learning of the death of her husband started at once for Scotia, where, misunderstanding the telegram, she expected to find the dead body of her husband, arriving in Tyrone on Friday evening and remaining over night with her son, Mr. John Devore. Mr. Devore being absent his family had heard nothing of Sayers' death. On her way to the station to take passage on the Lewisburg and Tyrone train she stopped a minute at the store of Mr. Jacob Stevens, deceased, just opposite the hotel in which her husband was lying a corpse, and while standing in the door of the store saw the undertakers carry the casket in which her late husband was soon to be placed. Upon being seated in the car at the station, a gentleman, who recognized her, referred to the death of her husband, at the same time stating that some time this (Sunday) afternoon he would be buried in the Catholic cemetery, unless the body should be claimed. The lady at once repaired to the Eagle hotel, only to find that the interment had taken place half an hour before. He was her husband, to whom she had no children. Her first husband, Mr. Devore, was killed in the civil war.

—Having purchased an immense lot of marble before the raise in price, I now can give my customers the advantage of it. I will sell you grave stones and monuments at 15 per cent. less than any other firm. Bellefonte Marble Works. 17-2t

—We have at last found a blacksmith who understands his business. His name is Mr. William Utz, and his establishment is on Bishop street, near Cummings House. He understands the anatomy of a horse's hoof, and knows just what kind of a shoe to put on, and never lames or in any way injures the animal he shoes. We know whereof we speak, because he has performed work for us, and done it in a more workmanlike and thorough manner than we have ever been able to get it done elsewhere in Bellefonte. We recommend him to owners of horse flesh.

—A duel between prominent parties seemed imminent on Friday, but the bold conduct of the gentlemen who were challenged prevented any bloodshed. The gentleman who sent the challenge was effectually "squelched," and the Bellefonte participants in the duel really did do well. But as there are some things in reference to it that it is not advisable to publish we shall not give the particulars, but shall tender the bold Bellefonters our congratulations.

Miscellaneous.

His Soul and His Silver.

"Your asking me how I came to use it, reminds me of the story of the Scotchman who, on his death-bed, after a life of meanness, wanted to make things all right with the Lord by leaving some money to the kirk."

"'Will the Almighty pass me into Heaven if I give 10,000 pounds to the kirk, d'ye think?' said he."

"'I can't promise ye thot, mon,' answered the minister, 'but I advise ye to try the experiment.'"

Laughing heartily at the story, Rev. F. E. Osborne, of No. 273 Ogden avenue, Jersey City, pastor of the First Baptist Church, West Hoboken, continued: "That's what I did with PARKER'S TONIC; I tried the experiment. It more than met my expectations, and I am very glad to testify to its excellence. It goes at once to the root of all digestive and nervous derangements so common among men of my profession. For women and chronic invalids the Tonic is a perfect invigorant, and is destined to supplant all other remedies for this purpose. A single dose produces the gentle perspiration and sense of life which eradicates disease. It seems to rouse every organ into activity. I admire it, too, for its power to antagonize the hold of the liquor habit over inebriates."

This preparation, which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, will hereafter be called simply PARKER'S TONIC. As unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers with inferior articles under the name of ginger; and as ginger is really an unimportant flavoring ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There will be no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, contain the genuine medicine if the facsimile signature of HISCOX & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper. 18-4t

THE LATEST NEWS.

Africa's Appointments.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., April 30.—Appointments of J. Simpson Africa, secretary of internal affairs, for the term beginning with May 1, 1883:

Deputy Secretary—J. Wilson Greenland, Clarion.

Chief of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics—Joel B. McCamant, Schuylkill.

Draftsman—B. Franklin Africa, Huntingdon.

Clerks—S. W. Buck, Bradford; John L. Butler, Warren; John M. Cooper, Blair; Robert H. Forster, Centre; Frank B. Fluck, Bedford; James B. Hackett, Perry; E. L. Hambrigh, Lancaster; Ellis L. Mumma, Dauphin; Thomas D. Nash, McKean; A. Hemmer Pomery, Montgomery; Charles A. Glenn and John A. McChan, Blair, of the present force.

Messenger—Michael Bradley, of Philadelphia.

Messenger to bureau of Industrial statistics—Edward T. Lamont, Cumberland.

Night watchman—John B. Moore, Dauphin.

Deputy Greenland is the secretary's brother-in-law, and Draughtsman Africa is his son. Clerk Butler is well-known in many parts of the state as a greenback labor speaker, but he took the stump for Hancock. Clerks Glenn and McCahan are Republicans and have served under Secretary Dunkel. Deputy Greenland, Clerk Forster and the messenger were in the office under General McCandless. At first Africa seemed resolved to give no appointment to either Philadelphia or Allegheny, as he thought that both those counties were already well enough represented in this administration, but the influence of Cassidy and McCandless in favor of Bradley, who has been employed in the Philadelphia mint, prevailed.

Grave Ghouls.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 1.—A good deal of excitement prevailed last night at Highlandtown, and eastern suburb of Baltimore, over the arrest of three grave robbers. One of them is a white man, named John Fisher, and the other two, Henry W. W. Marcus and Henry Smothers, are colored. Three bodies were taken from their graves about 6 o'clock last evening and were placed in a wagon by the ghouls and driven some distance till they reached a brewery at Bay View. There they stopped and went inside to get a drink. While they were drinking Policeman Henry Miller came along, and, seeing the load in the wagon, stopped to examine it. He found in it the bodies of two white men and one colored woman. They had evidently been buried but two or three days, as they were in a good state of preservation. The policeman concealed himself, and when the robbers came back to the wagon arrested all three of them. When the news of the robbery spread through the neighborhood a large crowd gathered and threats of violence were made against the resurrectionists. The force at the station house was accordingly increased to insure their safety. The robbers say they were employed by a leading physician of the city, who promised them $5 apiece for the bodies. They also say that they took the bodies from the pauper cemetery at Bay View, but it is believed they were stolen from Mount Carmel. The last legislature passed a law making grave robbery a penitentiary offense. Formerly there was no law to punish it in this state.

An Explosion in a Mine.

ASHLAND, Pa., April 30.—An explosion of gas took place at the Keystone colliery, about one mile from here, this morning, killing August Welcher, Patrick Reagan and Andrew Jones and seriously injuring Charles Tylen and Cooney Walters. The explosion was caused by the sliding of a pillar, which pushed a large body of gas in contact with the lamps of the miners. The force of the explosion was terrific. The bodies of the unfortunate men were recovered within an hour after the explosion. The officials at the mine kept the explosion quiet until all the bodies had been recovered in order to prevent any needless excitement. The interior of the mine was considerably damaged. One of the injured mem will probably recover. Had the men extinguished their lamps when the pillars fell they would have been able to escape in safety.

Carrying Nitro-Glycerine.

LONDON, May 1.—A man named William Mitchell was arraigned at the court at Leicester this morning on the charge of having explosives in his possession, with an apparently unlawful object. The policemen who arrested Mitchell stated the prisoner had four pounds of nitroglycerine with him at the time he was taken into custody. Mitchell declared the explosives were merely blasting cartridges. Fears have been entertained in Leicester for some time past regarding the safety of public buildings and they have been specially guarded. The man who was taken into custody last week at Northampton, on suspicion of being a manufacturer of nitro-glycerine to be used for unlawful purposes, has given a satisfactory account of his operations to the authorities.

The Color Line.

BALTIMORE, May 2.—Rev. J. H Riddick, a well-known colored Methodist Episcopal clergyman, formerly of this city, but now of Staunton, Va., arrived here yesterday morning on a train from Washington over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and at once made complaint to the officials of this company that his civil rights had been denied him, and that he had been ill-treated and ejected from the Viaduct hotel at Relay station, nine miles from this city, and owned by the railroad company. He states that when the train arrived at the Relay he went into the hotel with other passengers to get his breakfast, but was refused by W. W. Reamer, the manager of the house, who stated that Mr. John W. Garrett had given orders that colored people should not be served there. The clergyman says he attempted to remonstrate with the manager, when the latter became angry and with an oath put him out of the dining-room. He then left the hotel, came to Baltimore and complained to General Ticket Agent Cole, at Camden station, who requested him to present his complaint in writing to President Garrett. The manager of the hotel denies that he refused to allow the clergyman to breakfast there, but that Riddick entered the dining-room when it was full of passengers and asked for a cup of coffee. Reamer told him to wait awhile and he would be waited upon. Later on, the manager says, Riddick re-entered the dining-room and made himself very offensive. The company issued a statement last night that it makes no distinctions whatever, and that the instructions to the managers of the hotels were to treat all patrons with civility. Rev. Riddick declares that he will have his rights vindicated.

Cigar Manufacturers.

CINCINNATI, May 1.—There will be no disturbance here among the cigar makers on account of the reduction of taxes. They struck some time ago for an addition of wages and succeeded, so did the cigar packers, and there remains but a single question unsettled between employes and employers, and that will not present itself till fall. Heretofore the workmen have been required to pay thirty cents a month for gas consumed while at work mornings and evenings. Strikers for an advance have been made at Newark, Ohio, and at Portsmouth, Ohio. The demand of workmen at Wheeling, W. Va., Steubenville, Ohio, and Urbana, Ohio, have been complied with.

RICHMOND, Va., May 1.—All the cigar factories of this city are closed owing to the workmen demanding one dollar per 1,000 advance on the present prices. The manufacturers are willing to pay one dollar on fine goods and only fifty cents on medium and low grades. Both parties are determined to make no concessions.

Is it a Bonanza?

BRANDONVILLE, May 2.—Green mountain is located in the Catawissa valley, and is supposed to contain large veins of anthracite coal. It is in the northwestern portion of the Schuylkill region and has never yet been fully developed. A company owning the lands have begun opening up the veins, preparatory to the building of a large breaker near the town. It is a settled fact that in a few months the shrill whistle of a coal colliery will be heard in the now quiet and peaceful Catawissa valley. The coal has been tested and is of a good quality and supposed to be what is known as the Primrose vein. The new enterprise has increased the value of property in the valley fully 100 per cent. It is, no doubt, but the beginning of an extensive mining business in this new district. The farmers through the valley regard it in the light of a bonanza.

Killed by his Partner.

BOSTON, April 30.—Albert H. Beals & Fickett, spice dealers, Boston, shot and killed his partner, Perley Fickett, on the Fall River steamer Bristol last night. Both men occupied a state room together, and about 1.30 a. m. Fickett got out of his berth and went to a window. Beals was awakened by the rattling of blinds, and, thinking some one trying to enter the room, drew his revolver and fired. The bullet entered Fickett's forehead and passed out of the back of his head. He lived about an hour and a-half. Beals delivered himself up to the police on the arrival of the boat at Fall River.

Railroad Disaster.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 30.—The caboose of a down freight on the Connecticut river road was run into by a passenger train from the north, near the Plainfield street bridge, at noon. Mr Henry Wilder, a passenger in the caboose, was instantly killed. The body was horribly crushed. Henry Mulligan, the fireman of the passenger engine, was badly hurt by jumping from the engine just before the collision. The caboose was driven under the freight car ahead and smashed into splinters. The engine of the passenger train was slightly damaged.

Train Thrown from the Track.

DETROIT, Mich., April 30.—A passenger train from here to Toledo was thrown from the track by an open switch near La Salle last night. Henry Towe, engineer, and Fireman Wallingham were slightly injured. A passenger named Murphy, of Detroit, was also dangerously injured.

More Cases of Small-pox.

SCRANTON, April 29.—There have been four deaths from small-pox and four new cases have appeared during the past week at Oliphant There are twenty cases still under treatment. The neighboring towns remain quarantined.

Will not Ask a Reduction.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 30.—The coal operators of Mahoning valley met to-day and decided not to demand a reduction in the price of mining. They say even at the proposed reduction of ten cents per ton they would be unable to give miners steady work, as there is little or no demand for coal, and it would be injustice to miners who have been idle most of the winter to demand a reduction and then fail to give them steady employment. The almost unanimous opinion of the operators is that the miners are getting as low prices as is consistent, taking into account the price of the necessaries of life. This decision by the operators stops all talk of a strike in this valley among the coal miners, but the outlook for steady employment is disheartening. The Churchill mine, one of the largest in the valley, will open to-morrow, after being in idleness six months.

Three Saved and One Drowned.

COLUMBIA, April 29.—Mr. Lem Kline, Jr., and two sons and another man, met with an accident on the river yesterday afternoon, which resulted in one of the number being drowned. The four men had gone to Safe Harbor to purchase some household goods, and in returning to their home, near Shank's Ferry, York county, attempted to go through the big sluice, which, at this period of the year, is in a very dangerous condition. About half way their boat was upset. Two of them clung to the boat, and one swam to a rock. They were rescued by some fishermen. Lem Kline, Jr., was drowned, and his body has not been recovered.

Declared Unconstitutional.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio., April 30.—The Scott liquor law was decided unconstitutional to-day by Justice May. A saloon keeper selling without the written consent of the landlord was arrested. The defense was that the law is unconstitutional because it impairs existing contracts. The justice gave an opinion that the law is unconstitutional because the tax is unequal and because it impairs existing contracts.

The Cigarette makers to Strike.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Several hundred cigarette makers, employes of Kinney Bros., met to-night and resolved to strike to-morrow morning unless accorded higher wages. The trade is divided into makers and cutters. The makers have received 70 cents per 1,000 and the cutters 6 cents. The makers demand 80 cents and the cutters 10 cents. If refused 700 men will strike.

Influence of the Soil on Health.

The influence of the soil upon the health of those living upon it, is brought out very plainly during the prevalence of epidemic diseases. That malarial diseases (like intermittent fevers) originate from the soil, is already accepted; and recent investigations show pretty conclusively that the germs of cholera, abdominal typhus, yellow fever, and the plague are in some way connected with the soil, which is daily corroborated by letters from all parts of the country, stating the marvellous effect Peruna has on those diseases, and in their convalescent state. John E. Courtney, of Corry, Pa., says: "I am still getting better, thanks to your Peruna and Manalin." See page 24 in "Ills of Life."

Turned Informer.

WATERBURY, Conn., April 30.—Charles Connarty, arrested last week for assaulting Attorney C. A. Colley, turned informer to-day, leading to the arrest of his accomplice, Thomas Riley, in Bridgeport. Colley recently conducted several prosecutions for violation of the liquor law, and Connarty implicated about a dozen liquor dealers who hired him and Riley to assault Colley.

A RARE EXCEPTION.—The practice of puffing "patent" medicines is abominable, and we discourage it. But all rules have their exceptions, and we make one here. Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, has proved itself to be a valuable medicine, capable of doing great good to sufferers from complaints of the kidneys, bladder, liver and urinary organs. It has cured thousands.

Very Suspicious.

CHICAGO, May 1.—The charred remains of an unknown man were found this morning in a detached box car, loaded with lumber, on a side track at Ridgeland, a suburb of this city. There was a strike among the men employed on the Dunning in the village yesterday, and the police advance the theory of murder and the firing of the car to conceal the crime.

W. H. Sticker, Mt. Carmel, Pa., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever used."

Won't Accept the offer Made.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 1.—In consequence of the strike of the cigar manufacturers all the establishments are closed to-day. The latter agreed to pay the strikers fifty cents per 1,000 advance, but they refused to accept that.

WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE

Printers on a Strike.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 1.—The printers in the Daily Times office quit work to-day because the management announced that non-union printers must be permitted to work in the office.

Another Call for Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The one hundred and twentieth call for bonds matured to-day. The redemptions under the call, including prepaid bonds, amount to about $11,500,000.

Vital Questions!!

Ask the most eminent physician
Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike, refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you unhesitatingly
"Some form of hops!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:
"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to women"—

And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu"

Ask the same physicians
"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malarial fever, ague, &c." and they will tell you:
"Mandrake! or Dandelion!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable
And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is.

Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.
"Patients
"Almost dead or nearly dying"

For years, and given up by physicians of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs called consumption, have been cured.

Women gone nearly crazy!
From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness and various diseases peculiar to women.
People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of Rheumatism,
Inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula!
Erysipelas!
Salt rheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion, and in fact almost all diseases frail
Nature is heir to
Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

—Overseer of Poor, J. M. Keichline, announced last week that the expenses for keeping the people of this borough who were not able to keep themselves, during last month, amounted to only $157. This in a year would be considerably less than $2,000, which is as low as could reasonably be be expected.

—John Wesley Glover, son of Mr. Norton Glover, is missing from his home at Selinsgrove, Pa. He is five feet, six inches tall, aged 16, light complexion and has always been a fair sort of a boy. If anybody encounters this modern John Wesley they are requested to send him to his sorrowing parents.

—Among the names displayed upon the Bush House register the early part of last week we notice Mr. George Lander, who is connected with the firm of Carnegie Bros., Pittsburg; Philip Collins, railroad contractor, Philadelphia; ex-Senator S. R. Peale, Lock Haven; J. R. Lowrie, Warriors Mark; Robert Cram, Esq., Philadelphia.

—The report for the year of Laurel Run school at Pine Glenn, Mr. R. F. Fetterolf, teacher, is as follows: The school continued six months, 124 days. The per cent. of the attendance during three months was 90; for the entire year 86. Six scholars were present every day, viz: Clemmie Beates, Maggie Beates, Jennie Beates, Clara Mulhollan, Nancy Mulhollan and Frank Loy. Annie Beates missed only one day.

RAILROADS! RAILROADS!!

The Need of the Hour—What the Iron Horse Might Accomplish.

If we can only secure the erection of a network of railroads through Centre county we can well overlook the fact that the work is done by Italians, Scandinavians, Hottentots, or any other strange tribe of men. What we ardently desire is the multiplicity of roads instead of only the one half-line, as it were, which is all we now have and by which people are compelled to go out of Bellefonte the same way that they come in. What seems to be a true prophesy was spoken of Bellefonte by a business man when the car works were first started in this place. He said: "Bellefonte will not increase in size or population to any considerable extent while visitors to that borough are compelled to enter or leave it backward."

In the expectation that the Nittany Valley Railroad will be built very soon and that the Susquehanna & Allegheny route will also thread the same valley, movements are already on foot among the owners of the great ore banks to increase their out-put ten-fold. Whereas now they, at the highest estimate, yield only hundreds of tons daily, then their daily production will be numbered by the thousands of tons. At Gatesburg Bank and at Taylor Bank, only a few miles east of the borough, quite extensive preparations are in progress. All necessary repairs are being made and the boilers thoroughly cleansed.

For many miles to the east of the borough stretches this wonderful deposit of ore which is as rich in quality and perhaps more exhaustless in quantity than what is known as the "southern" ore beds. From every two tons of ore the manufacturer can be sure of getting one ton of iron of superior quality. Since the deposits of ore are so exhaustless in this region, extending all the way from Bellefonte to Washington Furnace, a distance of almost twenty miles, it is strange indeed that railroad capitalists were not long ago attracted thither. If the routes which are now proposed are completed the very latest new and improved furnaces will be erected and the produtions of the southern manufacturer of iron will be eclipsed both in quality and cost of manufacture.

If the Susquehanna and Allegheny Railroad will adopt the route already suggested in this journal through Curtin's, or Weaver's Gap it will pass through this district which is so wonderfully blessed in mineral wealth. It will open up to it a direct market with New York via. the Reading system. It will be to the mutual advantage of the owners of the ore lands and the railroad capitalists. Remember also that the route we propose is fifteen miles shorter through Centre county and twenty miles shorter if the whole route be taken into consideration. It is the most desirable route that can be selected and doubtless the discretion and sound-sense of the railroad projectors will lead them to adopt it.

HARRIS HAPPENINGS.

Local and Political Mention from Harris Township.

The farmers in this vicinity are impatient on account of the lateness of spring. Some had their potatoes planted before the last snow.

Query—Where do the defeated candidates go? Echo answers, "up Salt River." Oh, no, that will not do, for the black horse cannot stand the trip. Would suggest that in case of small offices a trip up Mr. McFarlane's creek would be sufficient.

We are informed that Squire Kreamer is about purchasing the lot from Mrs. Ferrar, situated on the Diamond in Boalsburg, where he intends to carry on coach smithing. The 'Squire is an excellent mechanic, one of the best the country can produce, and spares no time or pains to do his work right. He is, therefore, deserving of a liberal patronage by the community.

The subscriber who wrote the article for your paper in regard to the "political tricksters"—as they were called—gave a couple of them a general shaking up, causing them to squirm considerably and to open their eyes to the full capacity. Never mind, lad, you had better not squeal too loud or they will put a blue suit on you and show you a pocket book well filled with other people's money. Perhaps that will cause you to be silent.

We understand that Mr. Wm. McFarlane, the Republican member of Harris District school board, is favorably spoken of as likely to be chosen for its next president.

Boalsburg is lively in the anticipation of getting a telephone line to connect with Bellefonte. We believe that J. N. Dinges is the only resident of the burg who has as yet consented to rent an instrument. Hope the enterprise may succeed.

"GENUS OMER."

A Few Items About Boalsburg People.

The residence of Dr. C. W. P. Fisher, of Boalsburg, on Thursday evening, April 26, was the scene of a very pleasant occurrence, the Doctor's daughter and son, Miss Lizzie Fisher and Mr. John Fisher, being tendered a very enjoyable surprise party by their numerous young friends. It was intended as an appropriate farewell demonstration previous to their departure for Freeburg, Snyder county, where they will attend the celebrated musical college at that place for the purpose of perfecting their musical education. The term upon which they are just entering will last until the 1st of July. They are already quite proficient in music and the time spent in the cultivation of their talents is expected to improve them still more, which expectation we hope will be realized.

Mr. John Riley, one of the very pleasant young gentlemen of Boalsburg, has again given evidence of his well known penchant for "rambling the wide world over" by starting out on another of his frequent jaunts. He left on the 5.10 p. m. train from the Bellefonte station April 30, and no one will pretend to predict when he will return as that always depends upon his own sweet will. He will stop for a few days to visit among friends in Altoona and then will press onward, making friends wherever he goes. He is a brother of Mrs. Sarah Rankin, of Boalsburg, and his friends at home wish him a pleasant trip.

Miss Hoffer, one of whose arms was broken recently, by a fall from a carriage, is again recovering health and strength and will soon be able to use the injured member as freely as of yore.

Miss Florence Riley, of Boalsburg, has opened a select school, and will assist the young folks of that section to improve whatever mental talents they may be the happy possessors of.

A Religious Gathering.

The Sunday School Convention and Woman's Missionary meeting of the Lutheran Synod of Central Pennsylvania began on Tuesday evening of last week at Lock Haven. As will be noticed, the programme of exercises beginning with Wednesday morning, the 2d inst., was partipated in by persons who are well known to Centre county people. It is as follows:

Wednesday morning—"The Relation of S. S. Training to National and Social Life," opened by Hon. F. Kurtz, of Centre Hall. "The Word of God and How to Use It." by Rev. S. E. Furst, of Bellefonte.

Wednesday afternoon—"What can we do for Missions in the S. S.?" by Rev. J. Tomlinson, of Aaronsburg. "Sabbath at home and the S. S.," by Kev. J. M. Reifsnyder, of Lewistown. "Our Work and Its Needs," general conversation led by Rev. S. F. Gumhoe, of White Deer.

Wednesday evening—Woman's Missionary meeting. Address by Rev. Unangst, D. D., Missionary to India 28 years.

Thursday morning—Papers will be read by Misses Jennie Bright, of Aaronsburg, Maggie Shaffer of Nittany and others. "Work of Auxiliary Societies," by delegates.

Thursday afternoon—"How to Organize and Conduct Auxiliary Societies," by Miss Puella Dornblaser. All similar societies of sister denominations were invited to send representatives.

A Safe falls Down Stairs—Two Men's Fingers Terribly Mashed.

At 2:15 p.m. Wednesday, the 2d, as Messrs. Bond Valentine and William J. Musser were lowering a safe down the flight of stairs from the former's office, in Humes' Bank building, to the street, the safe started down the stairs unexpectedly, fastening the left hand of Mr. Valentine and Mr. Musser's right hand between the rope and the crowbar around which the rope was wound. The heavy safe stopped in this position, the rope grinding into the flesh of the gentlemen's fingers. Their cries brought help and the rope was immediately severed to release them, the safe coming down the stairs with a terrible crash, making a large hole in the platform below and breaking the stone outside the door. Three of Mr. Valentine's fingers were mashed and two of them will probably be amputated. Mr. Musser's fingers were also seriously injured and he suffered much pain. It is fortunate the accident was no worse.

—The Jackson & Wooden Manufacturing Company, of Berwick, Pa., have again bought off the saloon and hotel keepers, paying them $10,000 on an agreement not to sell beer or liquor, that amount being estimated to cover the profits they would realize from their business. This arrangement has been made by the company for several years and the court has refused to grant licenses to all other applicants.

A Prospective Concert.

Mrs. J. G. Love has surprised and delighted certain members of the Y. M. C. A. of this place by proposing to give one of her elegant concert entertainments for the benefit of that organization some time in the immediate future. Of all the musical entertainments ever given in Bellefonte none have been attended by the unprecedented success that has greeted the concerts in which she has been the animating and inspiring spirit. All of our citizens can remember how Reynolds' Hall was filled to its utmost capacity a few years ago when this lady and her class appeared before the public. Therefore, the mere mention that she will again undertake such an entertainment for so magnanimous an object is sufficient to place the public on the qui vive of delightful anticipation. Mrs. L's efforts impaired her health and if she feels able to complete the task which she expresses herself desirous of undertaking for the Y. M. C. A. the date and place will be mentioned hereafter.

A Pennsylvania Road.

Compared with March of 1882 a statement of the business of the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the same month in 1883, shows and increase in gross earnings of $277,087, an increase in expenses of $237,452, an increase in net earnings of $39,625. All lines west of Pittsburg and Erie for the three months of 1883 show a surplus over all liabilities of $236,156, being a gain as compared with the same period of 1882 of $248,442. The Pennsylvania Railroad has determined to consolidate into one company all of its new and projected lines in the Schuylkill valley. This will unite the Phœnixville and West Chester Railroad, the Phœnixville, Pottstown and Reading Railroad, and the Philadelphia, Norristown and Phœnixville Railroad, and to-day (Tuesday) the stockholders of these companies meet to take the necessary action in the premises. The name of the new company to be thus formed will be the "Philadelphia and Schuylkill Valley Railroad."

—A colored man named George Welsh arrived in town about two weeks ago. He was a son of the late John Welsh, and this was his first return after an absence of 22 years. When he left this place 22 years ago his father and mother were both living. He went on board a vessel and has traveled all over the world. During his absence he heard of the death of his father, but did not know that his mother was also dead. So much had the appearance of Bellefonte changed in the vicinity of the depot that, on arriving in the town, he inquired if this really was Bellefonte, and did not appear entirely satisfied that he was in the right place until he had received several assurances to that effect.

—Miss Keyser, the young lady who presides so efficiently over the exchange department of the telephone service, kept an account of the number of "calls" she received and answered on Tuesday of last week and it reached the grand total 454. This represents considerable labor and patience, as she is frequently compelled to call the same person several times before a response is made. Just think of receiving 454 separate "calls," responding "halloo!" to each one and then putting the one who calls in communication with the person to whom he may desire to speak.

—A vegetarian reports result of his year's experience without meat. At first he found the vegetables insipid, and had to use sauces and pickles to get them down. As soon as he became accustomed to the diet all condiments were put aside except a little salt. The desire for tobacco and alcohol left him spontaneously. Then he found himself wholly free from headaches and bilious attacks. After three months a troublesome rheumatism left him, and at the end of the year he had gained eight pounds in weight. He believes he can do more mental labor than before, and that all his senses are more acute.

—It is the fashion among journalists to make sport of the "dude," and we for one shall rise to his defense because we always feel influenced to array ourselves on the side of the weak. Blessed be the "dude;" be thankful that you have him. He is an interesting specimen for your study and contemplation. He is not so bad as he is painted. Perhaps he has brains as well as tight trousers. He is capable of becoming more than a "dude." Remember the Earl of Beaconsfield. If you do not like the "dude" you may be attracted to the possibilities we deduce from him.

—If S. Durbin Gray, Esq., thinks he can deliver a lecture better than Eli Perkins he should be allowed to do it.

—An Italian laborer dropped into Green's drug store the other day, with an inquiring look on his countenance. He was evidently after something, but just what, nobody knows. He was shown about everything in the establishment, from a bottle of soothing syrup to a toothbrush, but the clerks were unable to hit upon the right article, and he finally left in disgust. Walter will begin the study of Italian immediately.

—Lovers of instrumental and vocal music, of a high order, are looking forward with pleasure to the Camilla Urso concert, which takes place at Humes' Hall on the evening of the 12th inst. This will undoubtedly be one of the finest entertainments the people of Bellefonte have ever had the opportunity of attending. Reserved seats at Sourbeck's fruit and confectionery store. Chart of hall open to-day.

—One of the finest trout ponds in the State is located near Jones' Mill, Westmoreland county, and is owned by a party of Pittsburghers. On their grounds is a mile of good stream well stocked with trout. The water is supplied from a spring in the mountain side, which sends forth an eight-inch stream with a standing temperature of 42 degrees. The stream proper is improved.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which sulphur, sugar of lead, and nitrate of silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggists for it. Each bottle is warranted. Smith, Kline & Co., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and Hall & Ruckel, New York. 14 24 1y

—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Castleman, of Kentucky, who are now in Altoona, are persons of ordinary size, but their son, aged 4 years and 6 months, who accompanies them, weighs 145 pounds. The "child," although so large, is symmetrically developed.

FERTILIZERS!

PHOSPHATE.

The Buffalo Honest Phosphate still keeps the lead of all other fertilizers. Its good effects upon the growing crop of wheat continue to receive the general commendation of farmers wherever it is used. We are the sole agents for Centre county.

POTATO PHOSPHATE.

We keep a supply of Lester's celebrated Potato Phosphate on hand, also other brands of their make—first-class goods. Also Soluble Pacific Guano.

PLASTER.

Owing to the superior qualities of the Onondaga Plaster we have been induced to engage in the sale of it and pronounce it the purest plaster in the world. It analyzes ninety-four and twenty-three one-hundredths per cent. pure gypsum. No other plaster by chemical analysis contains as much sulphate of lime or gypsum as the Onondaga we offer to the farmers. We sell by the 100, ton or car load, finely ground, at our yard or other railroad stations, to suit purchasers.

BELLEFONTE.

All other American Watches at Reduced Prices.

TAUNTON, June 18, 1881.

I bought a silver cased Rockford Watch, unadjusted, April 12, 1880, for $20.00. Until June 9th, it run within sixty seconds, at a regular rate of about two seconds slow a day. It was regulated and set June 9, 1880, and until Dec. 8, 1880 (nearly six months), without any attention to regulation was only seventeen seconds fast.

JOEL [illegible],
Overseer Carding Room Whittenton Mills.

I have carried my Rockford Watch about eight months and it has performed to my satisfaction all the time; the last six months running at a rate of seconds a day. Am perfectly and recommend the Rockford Watch to all railroad men.

CHAS. C. LADD,
Old Colony R. R.

The Rockford Watch bought a year ago last October, I have carried every day on an express wagon, loading and delivering freight. It has run very well under all circumstances. It has not been altered for months and now is only thirty seconds fast; has given me perfect satisfaction.

Notice.

Our solicitor and collector, Mr. A. B. Steele, will visit Centre Hall, Centre Hill, Potter's Mills and Tusseyville on a business trip next week. We hope our friends will be prepared to receive him.

—Cherry trees are in blossom.

—The hydrant hose is utilized as a street sprinkler.

—We have already heard complaints about the heat.

—Lawrence L. Brown is improving the exterior of his coal office.

—Sheriff Dunkle is now detaining only eight prisoners in "durance vile."

—On Saturday night almost every second man seemed to be under the influence of "tangle foot."

—Prof. Joseph Belford's lecture to his pupils, on Friday afternoon, was on the subject "How to Read."

—The iron fence in front of Judge Jno. Irvin's property is resplendent under an application of fresh paint.

—What is usually denominated a "Baptist" shave was administered to Mr. Frank Blair on Friday afternoon.

—More valuable ore discoveries have been made on the "Ross" and on the Mitchell farms, near Pine Grove Mills.

—Mr. West Corman is erecting a frame dwelling house on the vacant lot next Mr. Brown's residence along the Lewistown turnpike.

—The Senate Committee's Congressional apportionment makes the 20th district consist of Centre, Clinton, Clearfield, Elk and Mifflin.

—The funeral of Mrs. William Foust, of Sandy Ridge, took place on Thursday at the burying ground near Martha Furnace. She leaves a husband and three children.

—Surveyor Wm. P. Mitchell, of Lock Haven, who is well known in Bellefonte, captured two cub bears while travelling through Leidy township, Clinton county, last week.

—A coal oil lamp bursted in Garman's hotel on Wednesday evening, frightening those who were gathered near it. The flames were soon extinguished and no alarm was given.

—The following are among the names placed on the New Brockerhoff House register recently: E. E. Ball, Lock Haven; W. H. Denlinger, Pittsburg; Prof. John Hamilton, State College.

—During the two weeks of the recent court Garman's hotel has been thronged with guests, as usual. The reason so many court people go there must be because they are always treated with courtesy.

—Several intoxicated individuals who expected to depart on the Saturday evening train for Snow Shoe spent so much time in a neighboring saloon that the train moved off and they were hopelessly left.

—The musicians of Aaronsburg, Millheim, Penn Hall, Spring Mills and Rebersburg are practicing for the purpose of participating in a grand musical jubilee at Selinsgrove, Pa., on the 12th to 15th, inclusive, of June.

—There will be no service in the Reformed church next Sunday in consequence of the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. F. DeLong, who will be in Lock Haven, where affairs relating to the approaching meeting of the Classis require his attention.

—The new board walk before the McCafferty block is an improvement. Now if the owners would add another story to the structure, or, better still, tear it down and build an opera house, it would add wonderfully to the appearance of that quarter of town.

—Twenty-six business establishments in Philipsburg have pledged themselves to close at 8 o'clock every evening, except Saturday. In this they are ahead of Bellefonte; but then it does require much push and energy to get ahead of Bellefonte in some things.

—Mrs. David Haines, of this place, is quite ill with what seems to be a cessation of the proper circulation of blood. She has acute pains in her head and about the region of the heart, and her condition is precarious, although we hope the worst fears may not be realized.

—Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Shaffer celebrated the first anniversary of their wedding on Thursday by entertaining about a dozen of their friends. Very fine refreshments were served during the evening and the assembled company spent a few hours very agreeably in the society of their host and hostess.

PASSED AWAY FROM EARTH.

Death of Hon. James Macmanus on Saturday Afternoon—A Long and Useful Career.

At about 2:55 o'clock last Saturday afternoon one of the oldest and most respected residents of Bellefonte passed away from earth never to return. The cold, lifeless body of Hon. James Macmanus lies in his late residence on Allegheny street, but the life which gave it feeling and expression has fled never to return. No more will he respond to the look of affection and love; pain or pleasure are his no longer on earth; he died at the rich. rare old age of 78 years 11 months and 18 days.

During many years James Macmanus has been identified with the affairs of this borough and county. He was called "the father of the Bellefonte bar" for the reason that he was its oldest living member. When he began to practice the legal profession many of those who are now its oldest and most prominent representatives were but boys. His public career is well and sufficiently set forth in Richie & Maynard's "History of the Industries and Institutions of Centre County" from which we quote:

"He was born on the 17th of May, 1804, in Carlisle, where he was reared and educated. In 1824 he was entered as a student of Thomas Burnside, in Bellefonte, and was admitted to the bar in August, 1826. In 1827 he was appointed by Frederick Smith, then attorney general for the State, as deputy attorney general for the county of Clearfield. He was reappointed to the same position in 1828 and 1829, by attorney generals Blythe, Elmaker and Markley. In 1830 he was appointed by Attorney General Douglass, deputy attorney general for the counties of Centre and Clearfield. This appointment was renewed by attorney generals Ellis Lewis and M. Dallas, in 1833, and Ovid F. Johnson in 1839. In 1844 he was again re-appointed to the same position by Attorney General John K. Kane, but declined to accept.

"When Jefferson county was annexed to the fourth judicial district Judge Thomas Burnside appointed Mr. Macmanus to prosecute the pleas of the Commonwealth for that county. He was appointed by Judge Woodward to the same position for Clinton county, when that county was organized, and held the office until 1842. He was counsel for the commissioners of Centre county for over eleven years.

"In 1841 he was elected to the State legislature, by a majority of more than eleven hundred and served during the sessions of 1841-42, but declined a renomination. In 1843 he was renominated and elected to the legislature, with L. W. Smith to represent the counties of Centre and Clearfield. He served during the session of 1843-44, but again declined a renomination. On the death of the Hon. W. W. Potter, he was the choice of his party to supply the place of that gentleman as representative in Congress for this district, but declined to accept a nomination. He was once offered the position of president judge by Governor Schunck, but declined."

He was married early in life to Miss Jane Armor, who died in November, 1859, almost 24 years ago. Three children survive him, viz: Mrs. W. S. Zeller, Miss Frances Macmanus and Miss Maggie Macmanus. There were five children in all, two of whom preceded him to the grave. Two sisters of the deceased still reside in Carlisle, Pa.

As will be seen by the above Mr. Macmanus spent a large part of his life in the service of his country in a public capacity. During that time he naturally became extensively acquainted and gained the admiration and respect of those with whom he came in contact. Though physical weakness came with increasing years he retained his mental powers until the last and remained in the active practice of the law as long as he was able to enter his legal office. His life was eminently useful and beneficent and his memory will always be held in pleasant and honored recollection. His publiic life, his private works, his indomitable perseverence and energy, extending over three-fourths of a century, speak louder and will last longer than any epitaph that shall be written or than any monument of granite or marble that shall mark his resting place.

The funeral was held at his late residence on Allegheny street yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

—The Board of Managers of the Y. M. C. A. were invited to tea on Tuesday evening of last week in the Association rooms. Through the kindness of one the members a very elegant meal was served consisting of cold meats, biscuit, peaches, cake, tea and coffee. After the edibles were duly discussed the business affairs of the Association were considered.

Cases in Court.

Among the cases that occupied the attention of Court last week are the following:

Centre county vs. Andrew Gregg, Jacob Dunkle and George Swab, ex-commissioners. Appeal from finding of the county auditors of 1881. Verdict for county in the sum of $190.

Jos. B. Furst, et. al., vs. John Hoffer, et. al. Verdict for plaintiff against E. J. Walker for $96.61.

Commonwealth, ex. rel. Annie Mullin vs. James Mullin and Andrew Brockerhoff. Verdict for plaintiff for $500, amount of bond for alimony on which Brockerhoff was surety.

Commonwealth, &c., &c., vs. D. S. Keller, adm'r. of &c. Geo. S. Livingstone. Verdict for plaintiff for amount of bond of George D. Pifer, guardian, &c.

A. B. Ross vs. Carnegie Brothers. Verdict for plaintiff in sum of $783.75.

George Reeser et al., vs. Commonwealth Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Plaintiff suffered non suit.

Jacob Pletcher et al., vs. J. A. Walker. Verdict for the plaintiff. The land described in the writ to be released on payment by the defendant of the sum $639.45 within four months.

W. H. Corman, assignee, vs. S. K. Foust et al. Verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $2383.10.

A. C. Geary vs. S. Krider. Jury found verdict for plaintiff. The land described in the writ is to be released on payment by defendant to plaintiff of the sum of $150 within two months.

On Wednesday Sheriff Dunkle offered deeds in the name of the following persons for acknowledgment: To J. H. Showers, James Runkle, Constans Curtin (2 deeds,) J. Miles Green, Eliza J. Curtin, Emeline C. Grove, Andrew G. Curtin, Andrew J. Shivery, F. W. Crider, John Powers & Son and W. C. Heinle.

Below will be found the REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Court of Quarter Session of the Peace in and for the county of Centre: We, the Grand Inquest, do respectfully report that we have passed upon eighteen presentments and have at your request examined the public buildings and grounds and found the same in good condition and the jail as cleanly can be expected, and would recommend the following repairs which we deem necessary:

The Arbitration room should have a new floor; the iron-clad cells should be put in proper repair. The kitchen floor in the jail building needs some repairs, and also the floor of the porch on south side of said building. The water pipes need some repairs. The jail yard wall should be pointed or cemented, and the spikes in said wall should be removed. All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. H. REIFSNYDER,
Foreman.

Sold by the Sheriff.

The following properties were among those disposed of by Sheriff Dunkle during the first week of court:

Two acres and one hundred and fifty-three perches of land, located in Curtin township, the property of Joseph Packer, to Constans Curtin, for $350.

Two acres and forty-nine perches of land, located in Patton township, the property of Daniel Durst, to Jas. Runkle, of Patton township, for $31.

Four acres and fifty-two perches of land, located in Gregg and Miles townships and another tract of two acres in Gregg township, the property John Fisher, to J. H. Showers for $41.

Fifty-three acres and sixteen perches, located in Liberty township, the property of William H. Gardner, to Constans Curtin, for $67.

Two hundred acres of land in Ferguson township, the property of Jas. Gates, to F. W. Crider, for $2,380.

Six tracts of land located in different parts of Centre county, the property of Austin Curtin, to Eliza I. Curtin, for $1,250.

A tract of land in Potter township was purchased by Emeline C. Grove for $1925.

A tract of land in Half Moon township, sold as property of James S. Cross to William C. Heinle for $106.

A tract of land in Snow Shoe township sold as property of James Gates to John Powers & Son.

A lot of ground in Bellefonte borough on High street, sold as property of Charles McCafferty to Andrew G. Curtin for $40.

—Dr. S. G. Frank has located at Spring Mills to practice medicine. He is a son of Judge Frank, of Rebersburg, and a very intelligent young gentleman. He just graduated from a Philadelphia medical college into a learned M. D., and the prospects are that his skill will make the residents of that salubrious summer resort so very healthful that some enterprising citizen will build another big hotel.

The Building and Loan Association Successfully Organized.

The "Centre Building and Loan Association of Bellefonte," met on Friday evening in the Undine Hose House for permanent organization. The first item of business that came before the gathering was the report of the committee on subscriptions which showed that 1070 shares of stock have been taken.

The committee on constitution and by-laws then reported and that document was adopted by sections and then, on motion, adopted as a whole.

On motion, the association proceeded to the election of officers.

Gen. James A. Beaver was nominated for President and the Secretary was instructed to cast the vote of the Association for that gentleman.

The chair then appointed Messrs. W. B. Rankin and J. M. Belford to act as tellers during the remainder of the elections.

The nominees for Vice President were James L. Sommerville and Lawrence L. Brown, the latter gentleman being elected by a ballot of 41 to 23. On motion of C. F. Cook, Mr. Brown's election was made unanimous.

The following named gentlemen were placed in nomination for election as a board of directors: Messrs. A. J. Cook, Adam Hoy, Charles Smith, George Valentine James A. McClain, William B. Rankin, Dr. E. S. Dorworth, Daniel Rhoads and J. H. Lingle. Of these six were chosen, viz: A. J. Cook, Adam Hoy, Chas. Smith, George Valentine, Jas. A. McClain and Dr. E. S. Dorworth.

Chas. F. Cook and George L. Potter were nominated for Secretary and the latter chosen by vote of 40 to 30.

J. P. Harris and J. D. Shugert were the nominees for treasurer and Mr. Harris was elected by a vote of 47 to 2.

For Solicitor E. M. Blanchard was elected over J. W. Gephart by a vote of 30 to 23.

The salaries of officers were fixed as follows: Secretary, $150; Solicitor, $120; Treasurer, $40.

The President, Solicitor and Secretary were appointed a committee to procure the necessary books, etc., for the use of the Association.

Prepared to Practice Law.

One of the important occurrences in Court last Friday was the admission of Mr. John Kline to practice in the courts of this county. The young gentleman has been pursuing his studies during the required time in the office of our rising legal friend, Clement Dale, Esq., and has applied himself to the cultivation of the varied branches of learning which tend to thoroughly equip a well-read lawyer with that assiduity and intelligence which characterize the ambitious student. The standing committee to examine all applicants for admission to the bar have been devoting much of their attention to him during the past week and find him unusually well qualified for the practice of his profession and so reported to the Court. The committee consists of Adam Hoy, D. S. Keller, James A. Beaver, C. T. Alexander and A. O. Furst, Esqs., five of the finest legal minds in the county, and our readers can well imagine to what a rigid examination they subject the candidate who presents himself before them. But Mr. Kline came off with flying colors and deserves as he certainly has our earnest congratulations and best wishes for his future prosperity. He is thoroughly educated, being a graduate of Pennsylvania College, of Gettysburg. He is endowed with that sound common sense and discrimination of judgment which are so necessary to the successful lawyer. We bespeak for him many legal triumphs and doubt not that his future course in whatever part of the world it may lead will reflect honor upon Centre county, the place of his birth; upon his instructor, Clement Dale, Esq., and upon all the agencies which he has employed to reach the eminence which he has attained. His friends are respectfully requested to remember that John Kline, Esq., is willing and ready to secure for them all the justice which the law will afford.

—Rev. R. Crittenden just returned from a visit in the vicinity of Philipsburg, where, among other good deeds, he distributed a large number of tracts printed in the Hungarian language to the railroad builders of that nationality. He has also procured tracts printed in the Italian language and will be prepared next week to supply the numerous Italians in this vicinity with literature which may tend to their spiritual welfare. He finds that even these somwhat degraded persons receive his overtures gladly and it is impossible to tell what good impressions may be made upon them.

—At least one wedding among well known Bellefonters is expected to occur during this glorious month of May.

Notes from the Lutheran Convention.

The eighth annual convention of the Synodical Sunday-school and Women's Missionary societies of the Lutheran church was last week in session at Lock Haven:

Rev. G. W. Christ of Philipsburg was present and on Tuesday evening made the opening prayer.

At the morning session on Wednesday Rev. S. E. Furst and H. Y. Stitzer, Esq., were appointed a committee to nominate officers, which they did as follows: For President, Rev. J. K. Miller, of Logansville; Vice President, Rev. J. M. Steck; Secretary, Rev. Charles C. McConnell, Yeagerstown; Treasurer, Miss Ella Gerberich, of this place.

H. Y. Stitzer was also placed on the committee on resolutions and Mr. Fred Kurtz on one of the regular committees. Rev. S. E. Furst was appointed to report the proceedings for the Lutheran Observer and H. Y. Stitzer, Esq., for the daily papers.

Mr. Fred Kurtz read a brief but instructive essay on the "Relation of Sunday-school Training to National and Social Life." This was followed by Rev. S. E. Furst's admirable essay on "The Word of God and how to use it."

—Sunday was what is sometimes known as "Expectation" Sunday. On that day the church remembered the fact that the Head of the Church had been caught up in a cloud out of their sight and the disciples were awaiting the descent of the Spirit. Although that cloud does not now obstruct our view there are many clouds that do rest upon Christians, several of which were beautifully alluded to in the sermon delivered by Rev. John Hewitt on Sunday morning. Among these clouds are poverty, blasted hopes and the darkest of all is scepticism. May these clouds all be removed from our view even as the Pentecostal descent of the Spirit brought joy and gladness on Whitsunday, which will be commemorated next Sunday.

Railroad News.

From the L. H. Journal: Engineer in charge, W. D. Chapman, Esq., is hard at work with his corps, and will soon submit a report to the company. The line is being straightened in places and made more practicable. In a few days Mr. Chapman will examine the Howard route gap with a view of leaving out Mill Hall, thereby shortening the line considerably. The work crossing the mountains on Marsh Creek will be what contractors call heavy—just what they like. Mr. Chapman says it will nearly all be rock work; and then there is a 1,300 foot tunnel near the Mo-shannon. There will be several bridges or viaducts from 130 to 140 feet high and several hundred feet in length.

—The telephone people were out of sorts on Friday in consequence of the bad working of the exchange machinery. Inspector Rankin, in attempting to charge the "refrigerator," got hold of the wrong crank, conducting the electrical current up his coat sleeve, which created a panic, and in the general excitement the instigator got heated and broke her cable, which accounts for the difficulty. We believe this is about the way it happened, but not being familiar with the telephone machinery we may have gotten the names somewhat mixed. P. S.—There are still hopes of Rankin's recovery.

—It requires more than one drawback to put a stop to a rural dance. The breaking of a fiddle string at a Coleville party, a few nights since, threw the assemblage in confusion, but not to be cheated out of their sport a member of the company tramped all the way to town, rung up Green's drug store, and procured the necessary amount of string, and once more the Coleville kitchen resounded with the tap of the "merry heels." Clerk Bayard never hesitates to get up at any hour of the night to mix up compounds for the sick, but is not anxious to be called up at midnight to deal out cat-gut to dancing parties—that is, not often.

—The safe which came down the flight of stairs so suddenly from Mr. Bond Valentine's former office in Humes' Bank building on Wednesday, the 2d, weighed 1200 pounds. We understand that two of the rollers, or wheels, were broken off and it was otherwise strained, wrenched and disfigured in the swift flight. Mr. Valentine and Mr. Musser, whose fingers were so severely mashed, were taken in charge by two surgeons and their wounds received surgical attention. Mr. V. is the holder of an accident policy.

—Sunday was one of the fairest and most delightful days experienced in a long time. The churches were well attended and the popular promenades were thronged. Spring styles were luxuriant and rivaled peach, cherry and plum blossoms in beauty.

Personal Pencilings.

Rev. James Hughes preached for Rev. W. O. Wright at Milesburg on Sunday.

Miss Ohnmacht is a recent valuable acquisition to the choir of the Lutheran church.

Sheriff Pie of Lock Haven will leave that city in June to reside in Newark, Del.

Mr. Jackson S. Ewing, druggist, of Snow Shoe, returned on Thursday from a visit in Tyrone.

Mr. Alva Grow, of Lock Haven, again favored Bellefonte with his agreeable presence last week.

Mr. William Steel, one of the prominent citizens of Martha, was visible on the streets of this place last week.

Miss Lide Thomas, one of the most elegant and vivacious ladies of this place, is visiting friends in the Quaker City.

Senator Peale and Judge Chas. A Mayer, two of the good-looking and intelligent citizens of Lock Haven, were in town last week.

Mr. Andrew Curtin Moyer and wife, nee Miss Clara Pruner, of Bellefonte, registered at the Hepburn House, Williamsport, on Wednesday of last week.

Joseph and William Rachou, of Madisonburg, who accompanied the Montana excursionists, have returned slightly disappointed with their experience.

Mrs. Henry Beck and her accomplished daughter, Louisa, who reside at Fowler, this county, spent a few hours in Bellefonte on Wednesday of last week.

Captain W. M. Heimach, of Philipsburg, has been appointed on Colonel L. M. Wagner's staff as mustering officer of the Division of Pennsylvania, S. of V.

Hon. Fred. Kurtz, of Centre Hall, told the people who came to hear him at Lock Haven last week all about the relation of Sunday-school training to national and social life.

Mrs. George Thomas, of Snow Shoe, has temporarily severed herself from home, kindred and friends in Bellefonte and will spend a few delightful weeks at the home of her parents in the Buckeye State, whence she departed a few days ago.

Mrs. W. W. Fair, sister of Rev. S. E. Furst, of this place, was elected vice president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Lutheran church now in session at Lock Haven, and Miss Jennie E. Bright, of Aaronsburg, was elected treasurer of the same organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morris, of San Francisco, California, arrived in Bellefonte on Tuesday evening of last week and were taken in a carriage to the residence of Mrs. H. Mann, east of the borough, where, with their children, who accompany them, they will visit for a few days. Mr. Morris is a nephew of Mrs. Mann.

Rev. Mr. Morris, pastor of the Evangelical church at Milesburg, will preach to the members of Gregg Post G. A. R., on Sunday morning, May 27, at 10.30 o'clock. The service will be held in the church at Valentines' Ironworks. The comrades will assemble at the Post room at 10 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Miss Sallie Harris, one of the fairest and most vivacious maidens of Jersey Shore, who has been gracing the residence of our popular townsman, Mr. Bayard Hicks, during the past few weeks, departed to her home last week, greatly to the regret of her numerous admirers and especially her hospitable entertainers. Her visit in Bellefonte was exceedingly pleasant and a repetition of it will be looked forward to anxiously.

Mr. Charley Barrett, who is now located at Foley, Lincoln county, Missouri, is enjoying that prosperity which so frequently attends the Eastern boy who goes West. He was a pupil of Mr. W. L. Malin, former manager of the Western Union Telegraph office in this place, and in his new home is manager of the telegraph office as well as about a half dozen other institutions of equal importance. He seems to be making his strong personality felt on the Missourians, and will, if reports are correct, soon so impress the heart and affections of a Western lady as to induce her to accompany him to the matrimonial altar.

—The usual Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock was attended by a large number of people and was conducted in a very able and excellent manner by W. F. Reeder, Esq.
